Atlanta Stores To Stay Open Late Mondays

In response to numerous requests from employers and employees in war industry and in military posts, Atlanta stores will inaugurate Monday a policy of providing opportunity for such persons to shop during the evening, it was announced yesterday by A. L. Zachry, president of the Atlanta Retail Merchants Association.

"There are thousands of people in Atlanta who now hold jobs which make it impossible for them to shop during the ordinary selling day," Zachry said. "For that reason, we have decided to remain open on Monday evenings. Stores, in general, will remain open on Monday evening until 9 o'clock."

The Atlanta plan follows closely that already in successful operation in Birmingham, Memphis, Cincinnati, Toledo, Cleveland, New York, Chicago and Washington, where evening shopping hours were requested by the federal government.

"Our decision was made to accommodate government employees and defense workers," Zachry explained, "but I believe others also will find evening shopping a real convenience."

Department stores will open at 12:30 o'clock on Mondays, with the exception of Sears-Roebuck and Company which is open on Saturday nights.

Furniture stores will open at the usual time, but will stay open until 9 o'clock. Variety stores and 10-cent stores will open at 11 or 11:30 o'clock in order to accommodate a large lunch-time trade. Dress shops, specialty shops and shoe stores are expected to observe the same hours as the department stores.

Warm Weather, Showers Will Continue Today

Atlanta will get more baseball weather this morning, but water polo may become popular as the Weather Bureau last night predicted late afternoon and evening thundershowers after continued warm weather in the morning.

The high yesterday was 87 degrees, while the low last night was 70 degrees.

2 IRA SUSPECTS ARRESTED.

BELFAST, Sept. 10.—(P)—Police engaged suspected IRA members barricaded in a house in a 15-minute gun fight tonight. Two were arrested and a number of revolvers and a quantity of the outlawed Irish Republican Army literature was seized.

Major Land, Naval, Air Forces Attack Indian Ocean Island

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
The United Nations undertook last night another major operation to secure the main sea passages of this global war, reaching out with superior sea-air-land forces to control all of the fourth biggest island in the world, Madagascar in the Indian ocean.

This operation was related equally to the war of Europe, where the Russians still are barring the way to Stalingrad, and to the war in Asia, where a major battle is impending for possession of Port Moresby, the important U. S.-Australian outpost in the southwest Pacific islands.

Although Stalingrad still was Russian, its defenders were under terrifying pressure, and the mid-night Moscow communique acknowledged another retreat and the evacuation of three more hamlets on the west side of the city. It was the fourth retreat there in four days, and since Wednesday, the Russians had lost five populated places.

The communique also said that fighting was raging in the streets of Novorossiysk, on the Black Sea front, a former Naval station which the Germans claimed as captured last Sunday.

The British, who last May occupied the Diego Suarez naval station at the top of Madagascar and subsequently penetrated some distance down the east coast, now have sent major naval, air and landing forces against three important ports along 700 miles of the west coast.

Seaway for U. S. Traffic.
The first British report said the operation was proceeding satisfactorily.

Madagascar's west coast faces mainland Africa across the broad Mozambique Channel, which is the seaway for all the heavy U. S.-British traffic bound for the Middle East, for the Persian Gulf route to Russia and for a good deal of the military supplies for India.

The new offensive has the full approval of the United States government which, unlike Britain, still is on diplomatic speaking terms with Vichy France. The U. S. State Department said: "The full military occupation of the island by British forces will not only contribute to the successful conduct of the war against the Axis forces but will be in the interest of the United Nations."

Axis Spies Operating.
There were distinct factors which gave the Madagascar movement urgency. They were:

1. Japanese planes are reported to have been scouting Madagascar, with French permission, and Jap submarines are supposed to have used secret island harbors for refueling. Likewise German spies were reported operating in parts of the island, with connivance of local officials and with Vichy.

2. Japan is certainly preparing for a major move somewhere, and if she chooses to follow the long-range Axis strategy, she will attack India with the idea of effecting ultimate juncture with the Germans. The first stages of a Japanese campaign against India would certainly include amphibious attack on Madagascar, to clear the western flank.

Indian Climax Near.
3. The explosive international situation in India is reaching climax, with Prime Minister Churchill's statement of Thursday refusing to consider compromise settlement at this time and stating that the post-war dominion plan, which the Indian politicians have rejected, was Britain's "settled policy." It was significant that he withheld this announcement until after the start of the Madagascar operations; it also was significant that he accused the Indian congress politicians of attempting open revolution, possible with the aid of a Jap fifth column.

4. The Germans may break through the Caucasus; if they do, the British tenth army, the Soviet army below the Caucasus and, probably, U. S. troops, will be fighting to hold the Middle Eastern land bridge. Their supplies and reinforcements will depend almost entirely on Allied control of the Indian ocean.

Salaries for Teachers Increased 25 Per Cent

22,000 Affected By Talmadge's Authorization

Governor Talmadge and the State Board of Education raised the pay of some 22,000 Georgia school teachers 25 per cent yesterday.

Acting the day after the Democratic primary in which he lost his bid for a fourth term, the Governor said unanticipated tax receipts in July and August enabled him to authorize the increase, which is estimated to cost the state about $3,500,000 annually.

"I, as your Governor," said Talmadge in a statement, "previously made the statement that if the state's revenue so warranted it, a raise would be granted the public schoolteachers of this state to meet the present emergency which now confronts the state in the education of our children."

Against Excessive Spending.
At the same time, he notified all department heads he had requested the state auditor "to disapprove any excessive expenditures or obligations created against this state prior to the time of the meeting of the next general assembly."

During his campaign he frequently remarked he had accumulated a large enough surplus to pay off the state's debts whenever he wished, but yesterday he

Decent Government Promised by Arnall

By LAMAR Q. BALL.
Ellis Arnall pledged himself yesterday to a decent administration of Georgia's government.

"I don't want the people to misunderstand me," he said. "In the next four years I can clean up the government of Georgia—but the program I propose to put into action may not clean up Georgia politically."

"But it will start that cleanup."

In an apartment at the Biltmore hotel, where Arnall and Mrs. Arnall had listened to the returns that assured him the governorship, the young nominee said:

"Made No Promises."
"I have made no promises. My hands are unshackled."

This admission was a new event in Georgia's history.

"I have made no promises to anyone on any job that I shall have to fill by appointment," said Arnall. "I will be slow to fill these administrative jobs."

"Each job," said Arnall, "will be filled by a man who is trained and diligent and capable—particularly," he emphasized, "that man shall have the confidence of the people of Georgia."

"I'll be in there for four years," said Arnall.

He mused for a moment.

"That's a long time," he posed giving the governorship of Georgia to anyone for that length of time."

The idea, he pointed out, was a Talmadge policy.

Other cities, other states, have four-year governments.

Feels "Bilt Humble."
"I'm feeling a bit humble today," he said. "I can't feel too humble—the people of Georgia have given me a job to do."

"I can only promise them this: 'Four years in office will give me more time to return the affairs of the state's government to the people.'"

"In four years, I have plenty of time in which to give them a decent and an honorable government."

The government that Arnall proposes to give to Georgia is an intangible thing, he emphasized.

"I want the people to help me with reforms—I want them to feel they have a voice in their government," he said. "I want them to be able to lift their heads in pride—because they live in Georgia—a well-administered state as far as the affairs of the people are concerned."

"I intend to clothe the office of the Governor of Georgia with dignity."

Winner Takes 89 Counties To Talmadge's 69

Complete unofficial returns from the state's 150 counties last night gave youthful Attorney General Ellis Arnall a 112-unit vote margin in his campaign to wrest the gubernatorial nomination from Eugene Talmadge.

There are 410 unit votes in the state, with 206 a majority. On the basis of the tabulation of complete returns Arnall had 55 unit votes above a majority.

The tabulation gave:
Arnall—261 unit votes, 174,199 popular votes, 89 counties carried.
Talmadge—149 unit votes, 127,488 popular votes, 69 counties carried.

Evans' Vote Split.
Evans county split its vote evenly, giving each candidate one unit vote.

The county unit vote controls the result of the primary. Each county has two votes for each representative in the general assembly.

The balloting Wednesday brought the most widespread interest of recent gubernatorial campaigns.

Others Renominated.
While Talmadge ran behind the youthful Newnan attorney in his bid for renomination, other statehouse incumbents appeared to have gained renomination handily on the basis of incomplete returns.

Homer C. Parker carried 100 counties and 264 votes to beat Ed Dykes for comptroller general. Dykes received 11 counties and 28 votes. Vivian Stanley was renominated for the Prison and Parole Commission with 107 counties and 252 votes to no votes for Mary Goudelock and Associate Justice Samuel C. Atkins won renomination to the supreme court bench with 94 counties and 252 votes over 9 counties and 20 votes for J. M. Bartow Bloodworth.

Four congressional representatives who had opposition, also won, and Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., far outran William D. Upshaw.

Ramspeck Returned.
Robert Ramspeck was renominated for fifth district representative. E. E. Cox won in the second district, John Gibson won in the eighth and Hugh Peterson won in the first, and Frank Wheelchel in the ninth.

In the races for superior court judgeships, R. N. Hardeman, of Louisville, the state's oldest jurist in point of service, lost to R. H. Humphrey, of Swainsboro in the middle circuit, the face of an unofficial returns. Humphrey is now judge of Swainsboro city court.

Judge Joe Ben Jackson, of the Ocmulgee circuit, was defeated by George S. Carpenter, complete but unofficial returns indicated. Carpenter led 702 votes.

In the Rome circuit, Judge Claude H. Porter won renomination receiving 1,529 votes against James Maddox who was given 1,065 votes. The other judgeship contests were not complete.

Head Leads Evans.
In the race for attorney general to succeed Arnall, T. Grady Head, of Ringgold, former state revenue commissioner, had 94 counties and 252 votes to 18 counties and 42 votes for Randall Evans Jr., of Thomson, speaker of the Georgia house and a strong Talmadge supporter.

Late yesterday Governor Talmadge declined to comment on the returns, saying he preferred to wait until the official count was in.

The attorney general won in the eight most populous counties, which have six unit votes each: Bibb, Chatham, DeKalb, Fulton, Floyd, Muscogee, Richmond and Troup. He had 24 of the four-unit counties in his column, while Talmadge had five.

President Roosevelt To Impose Nationwide Gasoline Rationing

Restriction Required By Rubber Shortage

By RICHARD L. TURNER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—(AP) The Baruch committee proposed and President Roosevelt immediately approved today the imposition of nationwide gasoline rationing and other rigid civilian rationing restrictions to keep a "dangerous" rubber shortage from producing "both a military and civilian collapse."

Asserting that "the naked facts present a warning" which the country dare not ignore, that the choice is "discomfort or defeat," the committee recommended:

35-Mile Speed Limit.
A nationwide speed limit of 35 miles an hour.

Reduction of the average annual mileage per car to 5,000, with the mileage of the "less-essential drivers" cut far below that point.

The allocation of rubber and thiolol (a substitute) to maintain essential civilian driving by re-capping tires and making new ones.

Compulsory periodic tire inspection.

A voluntary program of rubber conservation, until these controls can be established.

Nation-wide application of all restrictions.

"One Administrator."
Bluntly criticizing administration of the rubber program for "overlapping and confusing authority," insufficient reliance upon technical advisers, and procedures "bordering on the chaotic," the committee recommended the creation of a single rubber administrator to have complete charge of the program under the chairman of the War Production Board.

"One example of inexplicable administration that we can mention," it said, "is the failure to obtain detailed technical information concerning the experience of Soviet Russia in making synthetic rubber."

"Russia has been manufacturing synthetic rubber successfully for more than 10 years. Had the offer of the Soviet government, made in February, to exchange full information, been accepted, it is conceivable that plants for producing synthetic rubber by the Russian processes might well be on the way to completion."

It found that the nation must rely upon the production of synthetic rubber, and upon the uncertainties of creating a few months an industry which ordinarily could be established only in a dozen years, for rubber for both military and civilian uses.

It approved the present synthetic rubber program in general, but suggested that its annual capacity be enlarged from 705,000 tons to an eventual 1,100,000 tons, with allocations of materials for building the necessary plants as needed. Unless this is done, it said "there will be no rubber in the fourth quarter of 1943 with which to equip a modern mechanized army."

Among other things, the committee recommended increases in the facilities of making grain alcohol, useful in the manufacture of rubber, smokeless powder and other munitions. Under its plan, a plant would be built in the latter part of 1943 to make 30,000 tons of buna S rubber. Also facilities for making 100,000,000 gallons of alcohol would be erected near grain-producing areas and water transportation to make sure that sufficient alcohol would be available for munitions and rubber.

The committee also offered a series of recommendations to govern the development of the synthetic industry, keep its component parts in balance, and prepare for all possible future contingencies.

Named by F. D. R.
The committee was composed of Bernard M. Baruch as chairman, and Dr. James B. Conant, president of Harvard University, and Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology. It was appointed by Mr. Roosevelt on August 6, with an assertion that its findings would guide the future treatment of the rubber problem.

Praising its work, Mr. Roosevelt promptly approved its recommendations today and said they would be made effective "as rapidly as arrangements can be made."

He called the report "excellent" and said "the government owes a debt of gratitude to the committee members for the time, labor and efficient handling of this important work." The report was transmitted to congress.

At the Office of Price Administration, meanwhile, Robert Horton, deputy administrator in charge of information, said several weeks must elapse before gasoline rationing, already effective in the east, can be made nationwide. The principal cause of delay, he said, would be the printing and distribution of ration books. He added that 28,000,000 passenger cars would be affected.

Deficit Seen.
The "naked facts" to which the report referred were that there was not enough rubber to cover the nation's military needs between the present and the close of 1943—that in fact there was a deficit of 211,000 tons which must be made up before a single ounce could go to civilian motorists.

If the hopes behind the synthetic program materialize production of buna S and neoprene, the two synthetics upon which the program places most reliance, will total 425,000 tons by the end of 1943.

"But, on the other hand, the figure might easily fall to less than half that amount if delays occur—delays of as little as 120 days," the committee reported. "Bugs" may be found in plant construction or in the operation of any one of the three processes used in the manufacture of buna S.

"With 425,000 tons we should have a margin of safety, a slight one, to be sure, perhaps 100,000 tons above necessary inventories for ourselves and our Allies—for the front. With only 200,000 tons of buna S produced, our supplies would be exhausted. The successful operation of our mechanized Army would be jeopardized."

Tires Wearing Out.
Turning to the question of civilian rationing, the committee reported that tires on present cars are wearing away at a rate eight times greater than that at which they are being replaced.

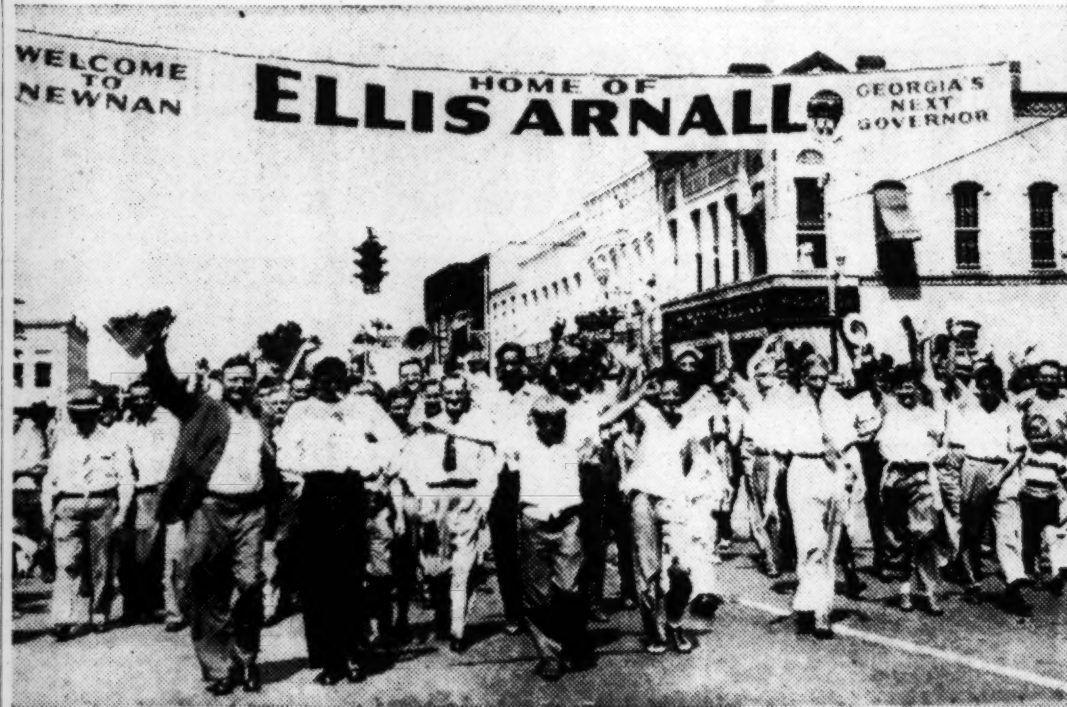

"If this rate continues," it added, "by far the larger number of cars will be off the road next year and in 1944 there will be an all but complete collapse of the 27,000,000 passenger cars in America."

"We are faced with uncertainties as to demand; with grave insecurity as to supply. Therefore, this committee conceives its first duty to be the maintenance of a rubber reserve that will keep our armed forces fighting and our essential civilian wheels turning. This can best be done by 'bulling through' the present gigantic synthetic program and by safeguarding jealously every ounce of rubber in the country."

"No Middle Course."
"At the same time we find that use has been insufficiently allocated. More must be allowed for replacement and re-capping. That is part of the conservation plan, we submit. More rubber to use to those who need it; less to those who don't."

"Let there be no doubt that only actual needs, not fancied wants, can, or should, be satisfied. To dissipate our stocks of rubber is to destroy one of our chief weapons of war. We have the choice: Discomfort or defeat. There is no middle course."

Hence, it added, the proposed restrictions on civilian driving. "Gas rationing is the only way

NEWMAN'S VICTORY—The town of Newnan, home of Georgia's governor-elect, Ellis Arnall, was comparatively quiet yesterday—calm after the storm. Townsfolk were sleeping it off after a night of counting votes, listening to election returns, and celebration. However, late in the afternoon a crowd gathered under Arnall's banner, draped over one of the main streets, and gave a cheer for the town's favorite son.

of saving rubber," it continued. "Every way of avoiding this method was explored, but it was found to be inescapable. This must be kept in mind: the limitation in the use of gasoline is not due to shortage of that commodity—it is wholly a measure of rubber saving. That is why the restriction is to be nationwide. Any localized measure would be unfair and futile."

Note of Optimism.
"This note of optimism is permissible: if the synthetic program herein outlined will fulfill reasonable expectancy, it may be possible to lessen this curtailment before the end of 1943. But until then, any relaxation is a service to the enemy."

Expanding its recommendation that the average driver's annual mileage be cut to 5,000, the committee said this would be a reduction of about 25 per cent. The limitation did not mean, it added, that every motorist would be permitted to drive 5,000 miles. The mileage of less-essential motorists must be reduced far below that figure, to permit a greater mileage for more essential drivers. The proper distribution of mileage, it added, should be left to responsible governmental agencies.

"It should also be stated that, in the committee's judgment," the report continued, "even this indicated curtailment of driving will be insufficient to meet the situation unless there is an intensification of such conservation measures as car pooling and sharing of rides and the purchase by the government of extra tires and spares from persons who do not need them for resale to war workers and others who do need them."

Comments Vary On Gas Rationing.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—(AP) A number of congress members tonight declared if nationwide gasoline rationing is a military necessity the people will submit to it cheerfully, but there were some who questioned the wisdom of the move.

The Baruch committee report calling for nationwide gas rationing to save rubber was applauded especially by members from the east, where rationing has been in effect for some months. Many of them have been contending that a country-wide curb would help relieve the eastern oil shortage.

Some comments follow:
Senator Taft, Republican, Ohio, said he had long been an advocate of rationing, and Senator Danaher, Republican, Connecticut, commented "It's about time" when told of the Baruch proposal. He asked jocularly, "Anybody want to buy a car?"

Senator Bridges, Republican, Nebraska, said: "Although I haven't had opportunity to fully study the report as yet, there are two features in it with which we will all agree—nation-wide gasoline rationing and a country-wide speed limit of 35 miles an hour."

Senator LaFollette, Progressive, Wisconsin, said he had not had time to read the report but inquired whether it contained any criticism of "the people who have fumbled the rubber program so far?"

Representative Hinshaw, Republican, California: "Gas rationing in California would cause great confusion. People out there travel great distances to and from work, and they need their cars. Public utility systems are not developed like they are in the metropolitan sections of the east."

Representative Rogers, Republican, Massachusetts: "Nation-wide gasoline rationing is only fair, and it certainly would help our situation here in the east. The east now is being discriminated against."

Representative Kilday, Democrat, Texas: "I feel that it is unnecessary to ration gasoline in Texas. Our storage facilities there are filled to overflowing now. If they need the rubber, that's something else—they should take it and not resort to a subterfuge."

Newnan Quiet After Night of Wild Jubilee

Townsfolk 'Cut Loose' After Watching Home Boy 'Come Through.'

By JEANNE OSBORNE

Constitution Staff Writer.

NEWMAN, Ga., Sept. 10.—A sleepy town pulled down its shades yesterday and slept until noon, recuperating from the wild excitement of an election triumph the night before. The town was Newnan, Ga., and the election victory was the gubernatorial triumph of its favorite son, Ellis Arnall.

Things were quiet in Newnan yesterday morning. No drug store cowboys were lined up in front of the corner ice cream emporium. No mules were being shot at the blacksmith shop. Only an occasional negro sauntered across the courthouse square.

Townsfolk Exhausted.
The town looked more like a sleepy south Georgia crossroads settlement than a bustling, thriving little city. The comparative inactivity clogging the air could only be the result of some great celebration which had gone before and left the calm after the storm. The debris left by that same storm was present figuratively in the ruins of the Talmadge forces.

The folks that inhabit that town were exhausted. For weeks now they had campaigned to end a red-suspected regime. Many and many a political rally had they attended in support of the town's brightest light. To climax their activities, they had stayed awake until dawn the day after momentous September 9, some of them counting votes, some just listening to election returns as they were broadcast.

Form Motorcade.
When Coweta county returns were consolidated, about 1 o'clock in the morning, wild cheers had gone up from the courthouse square. A jubilant crowd marched around the main streets, waving handkerchiefs, flags, and shirts. When it was pretty sure that Arnall was going to be Georgia's next governor, occupants of Coweta county's seat took to their cars and toured the town in motorcade formation, blasting their horns in a steady blare. No wonder the town was sleeping it off the next day.

In the afternoon quietly happy little groups finally began to gather at that factory of democracy, the courthouse steps, to congratulate each other on the fact that a chosen son from their own native soil will guide the state's destiny for the next four years.

Worked Together.
"I've been knowing Ellis all my life," said C. J. Smith, pointing with pride to headlines of yesterday's Constitution which stated that Arnall was decidedly in the lead. "He and I got our first jobs at the same time, working for Ellis' father, J. G. Arnall, in his farm supplies and grocery store," he continued.

"Even then, I knew he had the makings of a great man," he remarked to some of the campaign workers gathered on the courthouse steps. "He was a natural leader, and he was a natural winner."

One of the previous evening's ballot tabulators rubbed his hand self-consciously over his cactus-prickly chin and remarked that he had not yet had time to shave. Another declared in a voice sandpapered by yelling tabulations all over the courthouse, "It was a swell fight, and we won."

Another group, congregated in the City Cafe, separately and collectively affirmed its approval of the people's choice. Arnall would be the best Governor Georgia has had in 40 years or maybe ever, was their prediction.

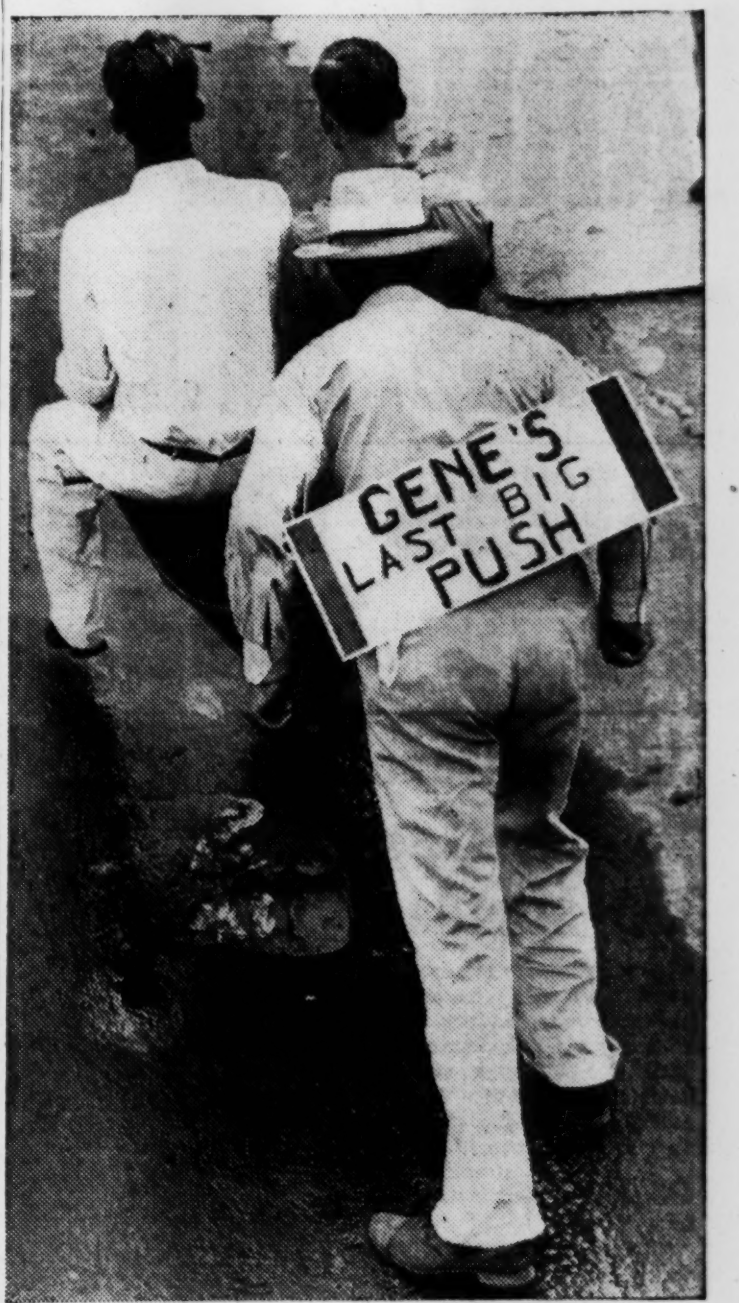

As the afternoon wore on, a crowd of townspeople, every size and shape, collected under the huge Arnall campaign banner, just off the courthouse square, and boasted, "This is the home town of Georgia's next governor." They told a visiting sailor he need not fear that the home folks would foster dictatorship, the very thing he was helping to fight against.

Maybe the town was quiet. But it was a quietness generated by deep content with a victory well won and steady confidence that the triumph would portend a happy future for Georgia.

Bray Named Chief Of Auto Salvage
James T. Bray was named regional chief of the Automobile Graveyard Section of the WPB Conservation Department yesterday by O. M. Jackson, WPB chief deputy director in Atlanta. Bray will supervise the movement of wrecked autos from roadside boneyards in Georgia, Florida, the Carolinas, Tennessee, Mississippi and Alabama.

For 15 years Bray was zone manager in Atlanta and New Orleans for Pontiac Motors before going with the War Production Board as district chief. He was graduated from the University of Wisconsin.

K. E. MacFarland was named to replace Bray as district graveyard manager. MacFarland was formerly in the automobile business in Jacksonville, Fla.

THE LOSER PAYS!—R. F. Hollis bet on Talmadge and lost but he gamely paid off his election bet yesterday by riding A. P. McGourik and J. A. Davidson around East Point in a wheelbarrow. Hundreds of citizens lined the curbs and laughed.

Militia Mobilized As Strike Halts Big Cartridge Plant

ALTON, Ill., Sept. 10.—(AP)—With more than 1,000 men of the Illinois Reserve Militia mobilized and standing by, the huge Western Cartridge plant at East Alton remained virtually shut down tonight by a strike of AFL chemical workers and sympathizers.

The strike, which began Tuesday over the discharge of one employee in the smokeless powder division, spread to the entire plant early today. Only a skeleton crew of maintenance workers passed through the strongly reinforced but orderly picket lines.

Militia Mobilized.
Governor Dwight H. Green ordered 12 companies of the militia mobilized as a "precautionary arrangement" for possible duty at the scene. They were being held in readiness at their respective armories.

Union leaders protested there was no need for troops. Fred Olds, AFL organizer, telephoned President Roosevelt to send in regular Army troops instead of state militia "if he thinks any armed forces are necessary."

"Up to WLB."
Meantime, War Department officials at Washington said the strike was "in the War Labor Board's lap." Union members have twice rejected WLB requests to return to work pending negotiations on a new union contract.

Army spokesmen declined to say whether the Army is considering taking over the plant.

While specific information on production or the number of employees is not permissible, the company declared "a great deal of production" was being lost as only "comparatively few" employees were at work. The company holds many war contracts.

Participating in various conferences during the day, along with union and company officials, were representatives of the Army and the Illinois Department of Labor.

Earl Cone's Will Is Probated Here

The will of Earl H. Cone, Atlanta druggist, probated yesterday by Judge Thomas H. Jeffries, Fulton county ordinary, left bequests of $10,000 in cash to his wife and $2,500 to each of his children, provided such sums were available.

The will provided $500 trust funds for each of his grandchildren, the interest to accumulate until they reached the age of 21. The residue was left in trust, his wife to have the net income for life.

After her death, according to the will, each of his children will be given equal shares in the trust fund. Upon reaching the age of 25, each shareholder will receive a third of his share; at 30 each will receive a half and the remainder when each reaches the age of 35.

Atlanta Officer Exonerated in Blackjack Case

Coroner's Jury Finds Blow Struck in Self- Defense.

A coroner's jury yesterday found that Sam J. Simmons, of the Orange Tourist Camp, came to his death Wednesday as the result of a blow with a blackjack struck in self defense by Patrolman J. D. Adams. A massive brain hemorrhage was the immediate cause of death, the jury stated.

According to the verdict, Simmons was being taken in a patrol car from a Marietta street address to police headquarters when he seized Adams from behind, kicked him in the stomach and struck him with his hands. Adams was said to have used his blackjack in subduing the man.

Police reports stated Simmons was found lying in a stupor in the doorway of a liquor store at Marietta and Earl streets early Wednesday morning. Adams and his partner, F. H. Weaver, said the reports, attempted to awaken the man, but finally had to carry him to their car.

On the way to headquarters, police reported, Simmons suddenly pulled Adams into the back seat of the car and began to kick him, whereupon Adams struck him with his blackjack.

Simmons was taken to Grady hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the New Salem Baptist church, near Marietta. Burial will be in the churchyard.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Sept. 10.—Peabody school, the laboratory school of Georgia State College for Women, opened its fall term this week.

Opening day was marked with an assembly program featuring talks by Dr. Guy H. Wells, president, and Dr. Hoy Taylor, dean of instruction. Martha Carpenter, president of student council, presided at the program.

Baptist Association To Meet Near Sparta

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
SPARTA, Ga., Sept. 10.—The Washington Baptist Association, of which the Baptist churches in Hancock county are members, will meet in annual session at Union church in Washington county, near here, next Wednesday and Thursday, September 16-17. The Rev. W. A. H. Flynt, of this city, is clerk of the association and the introductory sermon will be preached by the Rev. W. H. Barrett, pastor of the Sparta Baptist church.

This is one of the oldest Baptist associations in the state and comprises the counties of Hancock, Baldwin, Washington, Tallapoosa and Glascock. Large congregations with "messengers" from each church are expected to attend the sessions both days. Dinner will be served on the grounds as is the usual custom.

RECORD NOT BROKEN.
ACWORTH, Ga., Sept. 10.—In none of his many political races in the state has Eugene Talmadge ever carried the Acworth precinct. When the final count of yesterday's race was made, Arnall had a substantial majority vote over Talmadge, and Acworth's record was not broken.

Senate Group Adopts New Surtax Rate

Move Eases Impact of Proposed Taxes in Lower Brackets.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—(AP) The Senate Finance Committee today eased the impact of proposed individual income taxes in the lower brackets and increased tax liabilities somewhat in the higher levels by adopting a new schedule of surtaxes for net incomes up to $8,000 a year.

The new rates, for incomes below $2,000, would be imposed in $500 income bands instead of one $2,000 bracket as under present law. This made possible a more gentle graduation of the rates and imposition of a 10 per cent rather than 13 per cent surtax rate on the first $500 of surtax net income.

From $500 to $1,000, the rate was set at 13 per cent, as proposed in the house bill, but from $1,500 to $8,000 the senate voted rates ranging from one to five percentage points higher than the house. Above $8,000 the rates would be unchanged from the house proposal, but the total surtax would be larger through the cumulative effect of the $1,500 to $8,000 bracket increases.

Treasury officials estimated the change would add $33,000,000 a year revenue.

Here is a comparison of the new surtax rates with those under present law and those proposed in the house bill:

Surtax Net Income	Present Law	House Bill	Senate Finance Committee
$ 0-500	6%	13%	10%
500-1,000	6	13	13
1,000-1,500	6	13	13
1,500-2,000	6	13	17
2,000-3,000	9	16	19
3,000-4,000	9	16	21
4,000-5,000	13	20	23
5,000-6,000	13	20	23
6,000-8,000	17	24	25

During the day Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau told a press conference that war spending made inevitable some form of "forced savings."

Holds to Belief.

He still held to his belief that a proposed tax on individual spending which the senate committee rejected, was the best method to be adopted and "would furnish a strong deterrent to spend money."

"We (the government) are going to spend $80,000,000,000 this fiscal year," he said, "and we simply must raise more money."

Morgenthau added that if such a spending tax proposal were not adopted in the pending revenue measure the Treasury would have to ask next year for substantially the same thing.

Chairman George, Democrat, Georgia, said today's action virtually wound up the work on individual income tax sections of the new revenue bill. No action has been taken on President Roosevelt's recommendation that maximum individual incomes be limited to $25,000 a year after payment of tax.

New Income Rates.

In combination with the 5 per cent "victory" tax adopted yesterday on gross income in excess of $624, the proposed new income rates present a formidable financial challenge to most taxpayers.

Where a married man with two dependents and a $3,000 annual income would owe $58 under present law, the house raised his liability to $172 and the senate to $275.

The senate committee approved the house exemptions of $1,200 for married persons and $500 for single persons (compared with $1,500 and $750 under present law) but voted to cut the allowance for dependents from $400 to $300.

The committee also ratified the house action raising the normal tax on individuals from 4 per cent to 6 per cent.

N. Y. Chamber Favors 'Pay-as-You-Go' Plan

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—(AP)—The Chamber of Commerce of the state of New York approved in principle today the "pay-as-you-go" income tax plan devised by Beardsley Ruml, chairman of the board of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and treasurer of R. H. Macy & Co.

Tax on Rail, Plane, Bus Fares Inserted Into Revenue Bill

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—(INS)—A 15 per cent tax on railroad, bus and airplane tickets, and a 20 per cent tax on Pullman berths and seats, were inserted into the house revenue bill today by the Senate Finance Committee to discourage travel.

Chairman George, Democrat, Georgia, explained the action was taken upon recommendation of the Office of Defense Transportation and the Treasury Department. Soldiers, sailors and marines on furlough would be exempted from the tax.

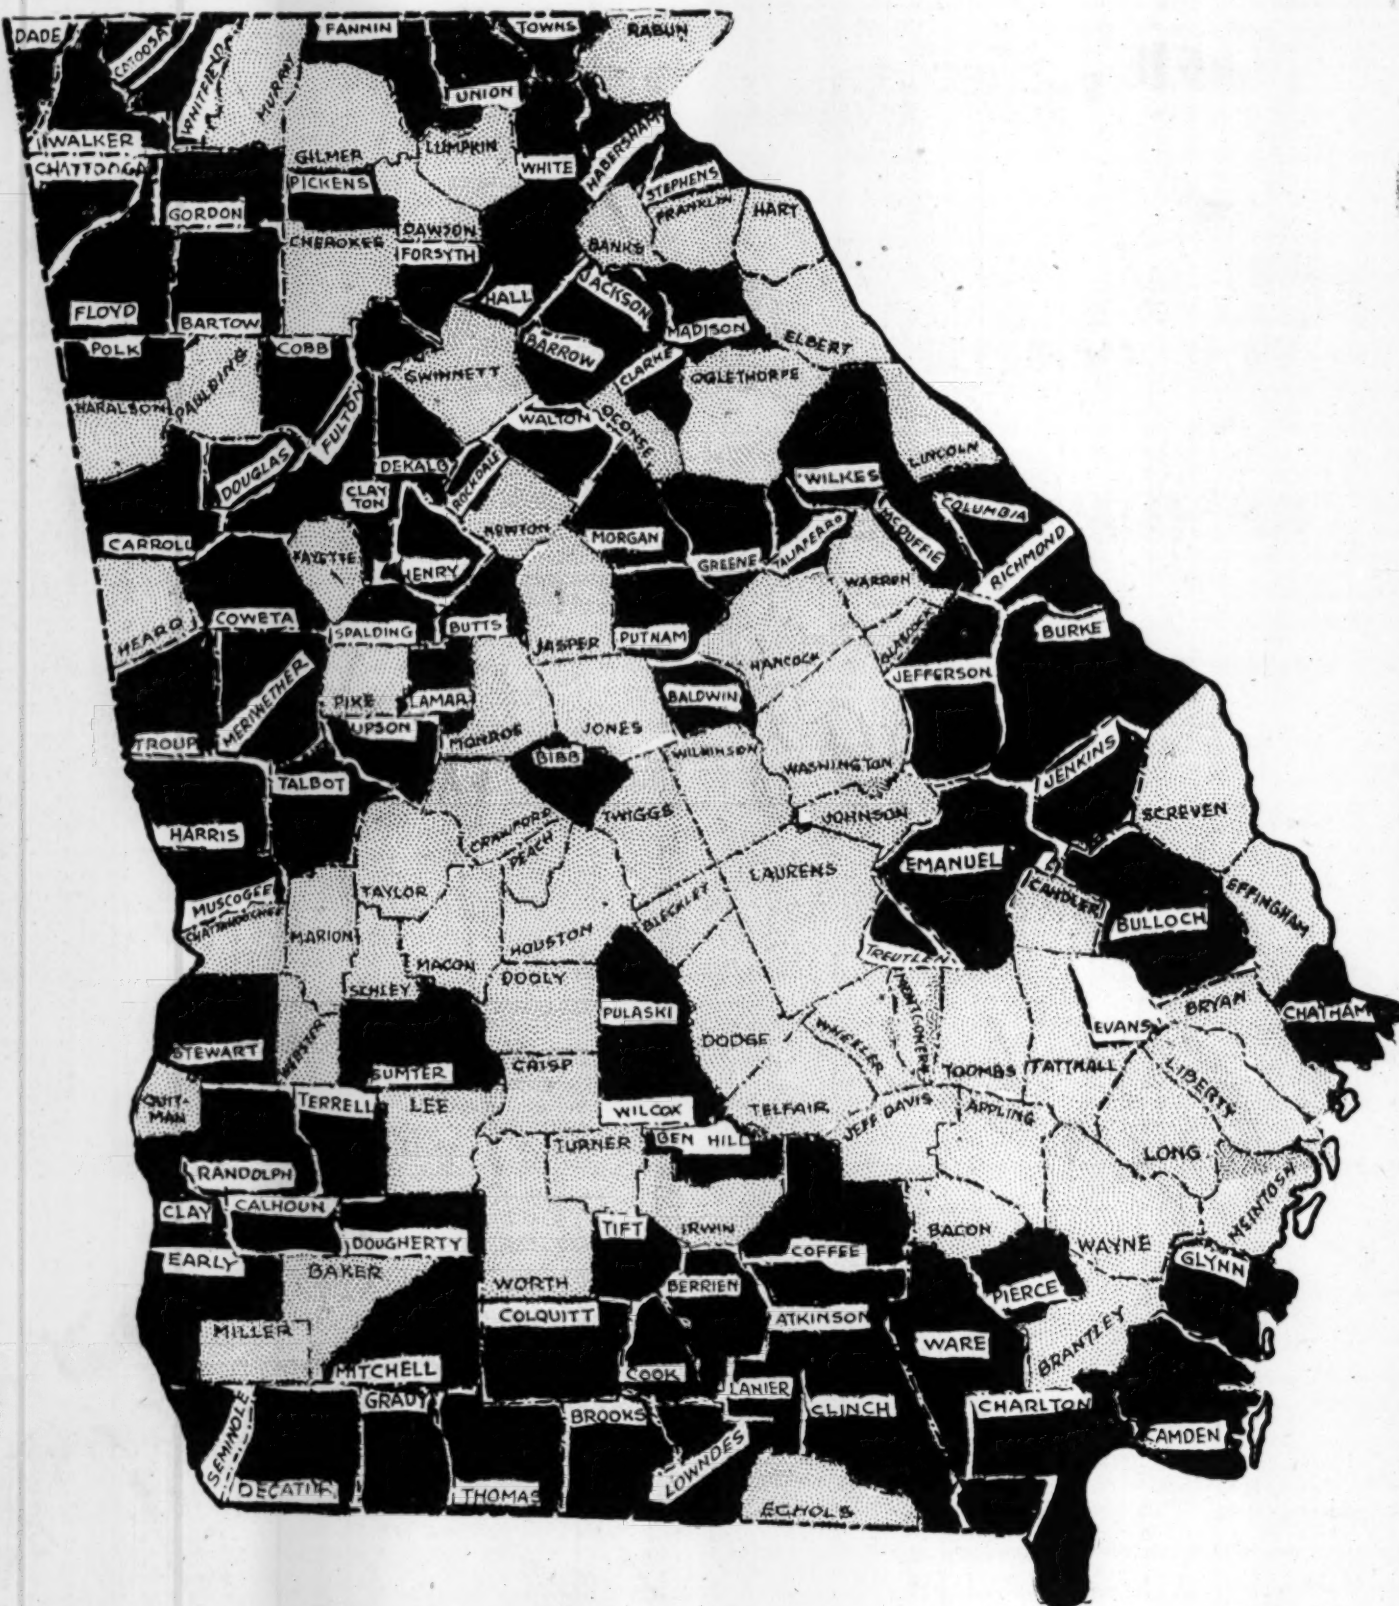

Present law requires a 5 per cent tax on passenger transportation tickets. In boosting the rate to 15 per cent, treasury experts estimated $34,800,000 additional revenue would be obtained.

HOW THE COUNTIES VOTED—Here's how the Georgia counties voted for Governor in the state primary Wednesday. The counties going to Ellis Arnall are painted black and those going for Governor Talmadge are shaded. Evans county (white) was a tie, with Talmadge and Arnall each receiving 507 popular votes. Complete unofficial returns gave Arnall 261 unit votes, 174,198 popular votes, winning 89 counties. Governor Talmadge received 149 unit votes, 127,488 popular votes and won 69 counties.

Ramspeck Wins by 1,512 Votes mustered 18,243 votes while Adams got 16,947.

About two years ago Charles Brown defeated Commissioner J. A. Ragsdale for renomination, breaking a 47-year-old precedent during which no incumbent was ever defeated for commissioner in Fulton county.

Ed L. Almond, incumbent, won his race for renomination over his opponent, Atlanta City Councilman J. Allen Couch, and is slated to become president of the Association County Commissioners of Georgia when that organization meets here next spring. If Almond had been defeated he could not have held an office in the organization although he is now vice president and in line for promotion next year.

Almond Votes.

Almond obtained 17,944 votes compared with 16,449 for Couch. Clarence Duncan won nomination to the commission post left vacant when Chairman Troy G. Chastain, of the commission, failed to offer for a new term. Duncan got 18,084 votes while his opponent, Eugene Gunby, attorney, received 16,562.

Judge J. Wilson Parker defeated Judge T. O. Hathcock, of the civil court of Fulton county, with Parker receiving 18,473 votes to 16,798 for Hathcock. For years the succession of civil court officials has been unbroken.

Incumbent members of the legislature from Fulton county won their renomination, with Cicero Kendrick and Helen Douglas Mankin as victors.

Kendrick got 23,355 votes to 10,265 for his opponent, Vester M. Ownby. Mrs. Mankin had 22,176 while her opponent, McWhorter Milner, had 11,963.

Etheridge Wins.

Paul S. Etheridge Jr., third Fulton representative, was unopposed and thus won his seat.

Both Fulton and DeKalb counties gave Ellis Arnall their six county unit votes each and piled up handsome majorities for Arnall, opposing Governor Talmadge in his race for a fourth term as Governor.

Fulton voters gave Arnall 25,752 votes to 9,392 for Talmadge, while DeKalb polled 8,337 for Arnall as against 3,132 for Talmadge.

Senator Richard B. Russell also carried the two counties with DeKalb polling 9,696 for Russell to 1,588 for William D. Upshaw, former congressman from the fifth Georgia district, and Fulton county giving Russell 29,357 to 4,727 for Upshaw.

Homer C. Parker won the unit votes of Fulton and DeKalb counties for nomination as comptroller general. Parker got 24,025 votes in Fulton to 9,641 for E. B. Dykes. DeKalb gave Parker 7,517 and Dykes 3,303.

T. Grady Head took both counties in his race for attorney general. Head had 19,313 votes in Fulton and 6,459 in DeKalb, while his opponent, Randall Evans Jr., speaker of the Georgia house of representatives, got 14,433 in Fulton and 4,631 in DeKalb.

Vivian L. Stanley, seeking nomination to the State Prison and Parole Commission, made a successful race in both counties against his opponent, Mrs. Mary Goudebeck. Stanley got 22,890 votes in Fulton, while Mrs. Goudebeck got 10,746, and in DeKalb, Stanley received 7,665 to 3,335 for Mrs. Goudebeck.

Voters of Fulton.

Voters of Fulton and DeKalb selected the same candidate for justice of the supreme court, Justice Samuel C. Atkinson. Judge Atkinson was given 22,515 votes in Fulton while his opponent, J. M. Barlow Bloodworth, got 11,226, and in DeKalb, Atkinson got 7,372 votes to 3,705 for Bloodworth.

There was considerable conjecture yesterday as to what effect if any the removal of Adams will have on future policies of the Fulton county commission.

Adams and Commissioner Glover Hailey have been feuding politically for many months, and Hailey is said to have supported Barrett's candidacy.

It was said that although Gunby lost the election of Barrett will leave Almond and Hailey, and if Barrett is taken into the fold, a three-man majority which could direct board policies.

Gunby was charged during the campaign with being a candidate sponsored by Chastain. There were reports that the majority faction may attempt to harmonize the board and abolish any friction which may previously have existed, and in that event, Brown and the newly nominated Commissioner Duncan would not be relegated to posts of unimportance.

Observers were watching developments with considerable interest yesterday, but bets were about even on eliminating factions.

All candidates for office in both Fulton and DeKalb counties issued statements thanking voters and supporters for their efforts in their behalf.

Second Schley Youth Is Reported Missing

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.

ELLAVILLE, Ga., Sept. 10.—L. H. Adams, 20-year-old Schley county citizen, has been reported missing in action. Adams is the second boy from Schley to be reported missing in the war. Edwin Wall, of the Navy, having been reported missing since the fall of the Philippines.

Mrs. Josie Adams, of Midway, received a wire from the Navy Department notifying her that her son was reported missing after the ship on which he was serving had collided with another ship.

Adams, an only child, graduated from Ellaville high school in May, 1940, and enlisted in the Navy the following October.

Strategic Value Of Madagascar In High Regard

Could Be Rendezvous for Inter-Axis Communications.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—(AP)—The British launched a powerful sea, air and land offensive today to neutralize all of Madagascar and eliminate reported fueling of Japanese submarines in secret harbors and Nazi espionage carried on with connivance of Vichy French agents.

Almost as soon as Vichy announced that the British navy and the Royal Air Force were shelling and bombing three key points on the west coast of the island off East Africa, it was disclosed here that Japanese planes have been permitted to reconnoiter the southern part of Madagascar.

It was stated also that Japanese submarines had put into remote coves to be supplied for attacks on Allied shipping in the Mozambique channel and Indian ocean, and that German spies who made their way to Madagascar were assisted by some local officials on orders from Vichy.

The island is so situated that in enemy hands it could become an important rendezvous of communication and supply between Japan and Germany and Italy.

"No Territorial Designs."

There were some fighting French soldiers in the offensive, which the war office said was "continuing satisfactorily," but the brunt of the attack was borne by three squadrons of warships and RAF planes.

Implementing the fighting with a political declaration, the British government announced that it had acted only after the Madagascar authorities had refused to co-operate in making the island safe for the United Nations against the Axis.

Further, the British government promised that it has "no territorial designs on Madagascar."

"Madagascar remains French," an announcement said.

The British had little to say about the operations but Vichy dispatches reported that the British forces coming from the Mozambique Channel, where Japanese submarines have been operating against Allied shipping, were attacking Majunga harbor, 320 miles southwest of the British-held naval base of Diego Suarez.

Morondava, 690 miles southwest of Diego Suarez, and Ambanja, about 120 miles below the naval base.

The French said it was apparent that the British were building up to a landing attempt at Majunga, where the shelling continued all day.

Eighteen warships were in the flotilla standing off Majunga, the French said. The assault there was reported timed to coincide with an attack from the north by fighting French soldiers, who were said to have attempted to land nine miles from Majunga two days ago.

The Vichy reports said the de Gaulleists were driven off.

Majunga is the largest port in the island and is the gateway to Tananarive, the inland capital of Madagascar. It could provide shelter for large naval forces.

Highway Control Point.

Ambanja is a control point for the only overland highway with the rest of the island and Morondava, the third most important port after Majunga and Diego Suarez, controls the Straits of Mojambeque.

The west coast apparently was chosen for attack because of the difficulty of landing assault forces on the almost inaccessible east side which has no harbor.

The British government announced that after the occupation of Diego Suarez in May it had hoped that the governor-general of Madagascar would allow the British to take necessary steps to "deny to the Axis powers places and facilities elsewhere on the island."

When it became clear that this could not be achieved by "peaceful means," the government said, further military operations were taken.

2 Jap Transports Sunk by Allied Sub

CHUNGKING, Friday, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Two Japanese transports loaded with 2,000 troops and supplies were torpedoed and sunk by an Allied submarine off the Fukien coast August 27, the Chinese Central News Agency reported today.

The agency said the transports were off the Min river estuary and headed south when attacked.

Another Allied Ship Captain Seized by Sub

Toll of Vessels in West Atlantic Grows to 463.

By The Associated Press.

Another ship captain—skipper of a small Norwegian merchantman destroyed by enemy submarine off the northern coast of South America—was taken prisoner aboard the raider following the torpedoing of his ship, the Navy disclosed yesterday.

Seizure of the vessel's master boosted to 10 the reported number of merchant ship commanders who have been held aboard Axis U-boats in recent weeks. Maritime circles believe the Axis has adopted a policy of imprisoning key mariners in an effort to drain the Allied supply of men capable of directing United Nations' cargo craft.

Sinking of a medium-sized British merchantman in the Caribbean also was officially announced yesterday, raising the Associated Press score of announced western Atlantic cargo ship losses to 463 since Pearl Harbor.

Torpedoing of the British vessel marked 30-year-old Chief Officer George Crawford Dawson's fourth submarine attack. Two seamen were lost in the encounter, but 43 others were sighted and picked up by a Naval vessel two hours after the sinking.

One crew member aboard the Norwegian ship was drowned.

New First Lady Received Returns With Humor, Charm

By CELESTINE SIBLEY.

Brown-eyed Mildred Arnall, who will be the youngest and without a doubt the prettiest first lady Georgia has ever had, yesterday gave every indication of taking the role of a "great man's lady" with enough salt—and enough humor—to endear her forever to the hearts of her small-town neighbors.

Pay Increase Changes Mind Of Teacher

A Clayton county teacher was talking to State Superintendent of Schools M. D. Collins yesterday, pointing out that his certificate entitled him to pay of only $55 a month.

"If it were $65 a month, I'd take it," he said, "but as it is I can't do it."

Just at that time, Collins said he learned that the salaries of teachers had been raised 25 per cent. "I told him to wait a minute and figured out that under the new scale he would get a little more than $65 a month."

Collins said the teacher was Edward G. Dick and that when he told him of the higher pay, Dick decided to teach after all.

Pay Increase Is Authorized For Teachers

instructed the highway board to pay outstanding certificates of indebtedness only as they become due.

The last of these certificates mature in 1944. A little less than $7,000,000 of them are still outstanding, and Talmadge said the highway department is the only one "which has indebtedness outstanding from the previous administration." He told the highway board to keep all its current accounts paid.

The pay increase for teachers was hailed by State Superintendent of Schools M. D. Collins as "the best news I've heard in a decade." L. D. Haskew, president of the Georgia Education Association, said, "We feel like a great day has dawned for Georgia."

Campaign Pledge. The G. E. A. at its annual convention last spring, put forth a demand for a 25 per cent salary raise for teachers as one of the principal points in its program. In the gubernatorial campaign, Attorney-General Ellis Arnall urged higher pay for teachers, saying they ought to be paid on a parity with other state employees.

Talmadge's pledge was he would give first consideration to raising the teachers' salaries as soon as he felt the state's financial condition would justify it. Uncertainties of wartime, he contended, precluded any other promise.

The present state salary scale is $40 to $80 a month for white teachers and $25 to $60 a month for Negroes. There are about 22,000 teachers.

The State Department of Education has reported at least 2,000 vacancies, however, this year, as salaries were in part to blame.

Aircraft School To Graduate 60

The largest class of trainees to graduate from the Fulton County Aircraft Training school will receive certificates at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon in special ceremonies at 165 Central avenue.

Twenty-eight men and 32 women are in the class. Speakers will be Dr. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools; Knox Walker, Fulton superintendent; M. D. Mobley, state director of vocational education; J. F. Cannon, state director of trades and industries; J. R. Womack, state supervisor of training for war production workers; and R. J. Limberg, Bell Aircraft Company representative. The graduating class will present the school with a flag as a token of their appreciation for the training to build bombers.

Getting Up Nights Nervousness and Kidney Strain

If you're feeling off a little, Get Up Nights is your answer. Burning Passages, Backache, Swollen Ankles, Nervousness, Rheumatic Pains, Disturbed Sleep, Headaches, and all the other signs of kidney and bladder trouble, are the result of acid in the blood. Get Up Nights is the only remedy that gets to the source of the trouble and removes the acid.

Help Kidneys Nature's Way
Nature provides the kidneys to clean and purify your blood and to remove excess acids. The kidneys contain about nine million tiny tubes or filters and the heart pumps blood through them about 200 times an hour, night and day. No man has ever made a machine that would stand up under the work that the kidneys are asked to do so it's easy to see that they may get tired and slow down as you grow older.

Forty years ago a practicing physician's prescription called Cystex was made available to the public through drug stores, making it easy and inexpensive to help thousands suffering from non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles. In these three natural ways, 1. Help the kidneys remove excess acids which may become poisonous and irritating. 2. To relieve burning and stinging of the urinary passages, and bladder irritation. 3. Help the kidneys flush out wastes which may become poisonous if allowed to accumulate, thus aiding nature in stimulating an increase of energy, alertness and enthusiasm which may easily make you feel years younger.

Money Back Guarantee
Usually, in non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder disorders the very first dose of Cystex goes right to work helping the kidneys flush out excess acids, poisons and wastes. And this cleansing, purifying Kidney action, in just a day or so, may very easily make you feel younger, stronger and better than in years. A printed guarantee with each package of Cystex assures an immediate refund of all your money unless you are completely satisfied. You have nothing to lose and nothing to gain, under this positive money back guarantee, so get Cystex from your druggist today for only 35¢.

BEST HOUSEKEEPER IN NEWMAN!—That's what her friends say of Mrs. Ellis Arnall, who is soon to move her homemaker talents to the Governor's Mansion. Telling 4-year-old Alvan, their little boy, that he is going to live in "the big city" was one of the nicest parts of the victory to Mrs. Arnall. She is shown here receiving a congratulatory telephone call in the hotel suite where they awaited returns.

nounced Mrs. Arnall's husband with complete satisfaction.

But the truth of the matter is, her friends vouchsafe, Mildred Arnall is "the best darned homemaker in Newman." She is particularly interested in foods and with the help of Ella, a Negro servant in the Arnall family since Ellis' childhood, she "sets a mighty fine table."

She is taking first aid as her part of the war effort and she has turned the house topsy-turvy routing out scrap for the various campaigns.

She is a Presbyterian by upbringing but goes to the Baptist church with her husband and plans to join it later. She likes bridge and gardening and is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority. She worries about the scarcity of nylons like her neighbors in Newman and everywhere and loves clothes with a genuine feminine passion.

nity—and still, I shall be progressive.

"We have had Governors in the past who have been so concerned about the dignity of their office that nothing was accomplished."

"I shall invest that office with both dignity and progress. I shall be loyal to my principles, which are the principles of the people."

"I shall be loyal to my friends—but I shall not permit so-called friends to lure me from the path of dignity."

And then, Arnall said: "I promise this—'Whenever I find any state officeholder—elective or appointive—acting wrongly, I shall expose him, publicly.'

"I won't wait until the next campaign and try to defend him. I want no maladministration of affairs during my administration, and I shall expose any misconduct of the head of any department regardless of whether I appointed him."

To Restore Accrediting. "I approach this job with humility—I'll handle it decently." Of the accredited standings of the schools and colleges, Arnall said:

"I'll have those difficulties corrected as quickly as I can. I can say only that the accrediting associations know that Georgia has done its best—it will be up to those associations."

"But I want everyone to know that not a single half year of work in a Georgia high school or college or in the Georgia University shall be wasted. The service said, should be doubled this year, due to the shortage of commercial nitrogen, the need for feed crops and for more organic matter in Georgia soil."

"We must stick together," he said, "this election shows the people."

Student Slayer Born Criminal, Expert Says

Confessed Killer of Four Classed as 'Hyper-Emotional Type.'

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 10.—(AP) A specialist who examined Gregorio Cardenas Hernandez, head of the "laboratory murder house," today said in a published interview that the 27-year-old chemistry student slayer was "a born criminal," not insane.

The man police say has confessed to strangling four young women and burying them in his garden was classified as a "hyper-emotional type who could convert himself into a beast" on certain occasions, and said that he had feigned insanity when first arrested. He now is held on a formal charge of "suspicion of murder."

A different version of Cardenas' character was supplied by his former wife, Sabina Lara Gonzalez, 21.

She called him "a perfect gentleman" despite that time she said he threatened to kill them both by crashing his motor car into a tree. That was because he wanted her agreement to a divorce, she said.

Police and press were seeking out others who knew Cardenas prior to the discovery of the four bodies in his garden. The newspaper El Universal had an interview with one girl who was quoted as saying that Cardenas performed chemical experiments in his laboratory while she watched.

When Cardenas passed a handkerchief with "an odorous solution" over her face, she said she bolted.

and pale, constantly mopping streams of perspiration from his face.

Talmadge headquarters on the fifth floor of the Henry Grady, a scene of feverish activity for the last three months, were practically deserted yesterday. A few of the Governor's close friends sitting around the hotel lobby refused to comment on what his next step might be.

"We don't know what the Governor is saying," they declared. "None of us will know what he intends doing until he makes a public announcement. He will get around to doing that soon."

Reports in some quarters indicated that Talmadge is considering abandoning his Atlanta law office and headquarters after January 1 and devoting most of his time to his farms in Telfair and surrounding counties.

Several of his followers intimated he was ready to retire from public life at the end of six years as Governor.

His colorful political career started in 1926, when he was elected state secretary of agriculture.

One of Talmadge's henchmen, Johnny Nahara, who was accused of drawing a knife when Robert F. (Cowboy) Wood was arrested at Statesboro, wanted it made plain to Georgia citizens that "I never carried no knife."

Nahara's request was typical of many of the Talmadge men who have spotlighted the news during campaign months. They were ready to admit defeat and call it quits. For them the campaign was over.

Many Austrian Peas Planted in Georgia

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 10.—(AP) The Agriculture Extension Service said today that approximately 203,000 acres were planted in Austrian winter peas in Georgia last fall, almost double the amount planted in any other legume crop. The acreage, the service said, should be doubled this year, due to the shortage of commercial nitrogen, the need for feed crops and for more organic matter in Georgia soil.

First Fall Rains Fail To Halt Drive Toward Stalingrad

MOSCOW, Friday, Sept. 11.—(AP)—German tanks and infantry smashing frontally at Stalingrad forced the Red army to abandon three more populated places immediately west of that city in the fourth Russian retreat in as many days, the Soviets announced early today.

Cuba has extended gasoline rationing to all industries.

Over muddy battlefields soaked by the first autumnal rains and strewn with wrecked tanks and mangled bodies the Nazi mechanized masses hammered even closer to the Volga river stronghold. Soviet airmen were reported taking an increasingly heavy toll of the advancing German legions.

(The Berlin radio said that a German tank corps had reached the Volga north of Stalingrad and enlarged its gains in the face of heavy Russian counterattacks.) Southwest of Stalingrad, the Russians said they still were holding, despite repeated Nazi attacks.

On the Black sea coast the Red army now is engaged in street fighting at Novorossiysk against the Germans who crashed through to the northwestern outskirts of the city, the communique said.

At Mordok, on the road to the Grozny oil fields, the Russians reported their only signal success—the continued annihilation of German infantry battalions which had crossed the Terek river. German officers of the 360th division were quoted as saying their division had been routed, and in some companies only 10 or 12 men survived.

Fighting also flared on the relatively dormant front at Voronezh, on the upper Don river, where the Russians said that German tank-supported troops overran one populated place south of that city, but later were thrown back to their original positions. Twenty German tanks were reported destroyed and three Nazi infantry companies routed.

The new Red army withdrawal west of Stalingrad gave the Nazis five populated areas in two days.

Red Cross Hits Rumor of Sale Of Dressings

Chapter Makes Them Only for Armed Services, Brewer Explains.

Bombarded by numbers of telephone calls asking to purchase surgical dressings, officials of the Atlanta chapter, American Red Cross, explained yesterday that the organization does not sell surgical dressings, but makes them only for the armed forces of the United States on orders received from naval and military authorities.

One person last week insisted that he knew positively the Red Cross is selling surgical dressings because he "has a friend who buys them from the Red Cross and then sells them again at a profit."

"Such a statement is absurd," commented Oby T. Brewer, chairman of the local chapter, "and we are at a loss to know why such rumors arise. It is scarcely to be believed that a deliberate effort to propagandize against the Red Cross and its work is responsible for such statements. It may be that someone is using supplies from commercial houses that use the Red Cross insignia as a trade mark, thereby creating confusion in the public mind."

He added that federal government officials are now trying to secure passage of a bill that would prohibit the use of the emblem by anyone except the Red Cross itself.

Four Nazi tanks were destroyed and 400 Germans killed in one sector, the communique said, but the heaviest destruction was credited to Red airmen, who in the last two days "destroyed or damaged about 30 tanks, 100 trucks with troops and supplies, and in air combats brought down 15 German planes."

Shifting the bulk of their equipment and troops directly west of Stalingrad, the Germans have gained steadily in the last week. Tough storm troops were reported participating in the assault.

On the southwestern side of the city the Russians said their artillery and infantry had beaten off the enemy, destroying 13 more tanks, 14 trucks, and 42 military dumps. The firm defense of this sector as well as the northwestern approaches resulted in the German frontal drive.

German Raider Strafes Iceland Store, Laborers

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Sept. 10.—(AP)—A lone Nazi raider attacked Iceland again today, machinegunning a store and house in an east coast village, laborers in a field and two Icelandic fishing trawlers.

The Army said the plane dropped no bombs and caused little damage, none of it to military installations. It said there were no casualties.

Injunction suit to halt alleged violations of the wage and hour law was filed here yesterday in United States district court against Norris, Inc., candy manufacturers, by the regional office of the Wage and Hour Division of the Department of Labor. The suit charges the company with failure to pay the prescribed time and one-half pay for overtime work and failure to keep adequate records of time worked by some of its employees.

Bank clearings amounted to $16,800,000 yesterday compared with $14,900,000 for the corresponding day last year.

Drop Indicated In Peach Output

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—(AP) The production of peaches in the United States for 1942 will be off 12 per cent compared with last year, the Department of Agriculture predicted today.

This year's production was estimated at 65,614,000 bushels compared with 74,451,000 bushels in 1941. However, this year's estimated crop would be 20 per cent larger than the 10-year (1930-39) average of 54,706,000 bushels.

The southern states' production is estimated at 19,991,000 bushels compared with the 1941 crop of 24,903,000, and the 10-year average of 14,505,000.

California had an estimated yield of 27,585,000 bushels, Georgia with second with 6,177,000, South Carolina third with 3,500,000, North Carolina output was set at 2,463,000 bushels, Maryland at 1,010,000, New York's 1,685,000, Virginia's 1,840,000 and Arkansas' 2,337,000.

Newton Adams, Troup Pioneer, Dies at Home

Rites Will Be Held This Afternoon for Prominent Citizen.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
LAGRANGE, Ga., Sept. 10.—Newton Adams, 87, member of one of Troup county's oldest and most prominent pioneer families, died at his residence on Greenville street this morning after an illness of two years.

Funeral services will be conducted from the chapel of Hammett-Groover, local morticians, at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon, with the Rev. M. M. Maxwell, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiating. Interment will be in the family plot in Hillview cemetery.

Mr. Adams, who moved to Lagrange for residence over 40 years ago from his plantation in the county, was for years associated with his brother, R. L. Adams, in the firm of Adams Hardware Company. Maintaining an active interest in his agricultural holdings, he had also been an educator throughout this county in his early manhood.

He was born in Troup county, the son of Judge Jordan Adams, of Virginia, and the former Miss Margaret Osborn, of Stewart county. He was married in 1895 to Miss Viola Sledge, of Troup county, and he was one of the oldest members of the First Methodist church.

Surviving him are his wife; two daughters, Mrs. Lewis Jackson and Miss Ruth Adams, both of Lagrange; two sons, R. J. Adams, of Statesville, N. C.; C. S. Adams, of Savannah; two brothers, R. L. Adams, of Lagrange; J. C. Adams, of Jackson, Ala.; one sister, Mrs. Will Mallory, of Lagrange.

Adrenalin Seen as Possible High Blood Pressure Antidote

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 10.—(AP) A discovery that adrenalin, the human body's quick-fighting hormone, is easily converted into an antidote for high blood pressure, was reported today to the American Chemical Society.

The report was by Doctors K. A. Oaster and Harry Sobotka, Mt. Sinai hospital, New York. Adrenalin comes from the adrenal glands. During fear, anger, fighting or anything requiring quick energy, the hormone is released into the blood. It not only raises energy, but increases blood pressure temporarily.

An easy chemical reaction turns this adrenalin, in test tubes, into a dark, red powder known as adrenochrome. The latter reduces high blood pressure. This ability had been overlooked by other investigators who tried the red powder only on normal blood pressure. It has no effect on normal pressure. It is not in the least poisonous. It can be synthesized. A present drawback is difficulty to make it keep long. The Mt. Sinai experiments were done on dogs and rats. Dogs' blood pressures are similar to humans. Dogs dropped from pressures of 180 down to 120, normal, in two to 24 hours. The pressures in animals remained normal as long as the antidote was given. Three grains were enough for a dog, and much less for a rat. The remedy is injected into bloodstream or into muscles.

Human beings have not been tried, but the discovery came from observing that humans with high blood pressures had a blood chemical that resembles adrenalin, and is known chemically as a precursor of adrenalin. The altered adrenalin has a chemical structure somewhat like vitamin K, whose effect is to stop or retard excessive bleeding.

'Holiday Inn' Begins Today At Capitol

Bing Crosby and Fred Astaire Starred in Musical Film.

"Holiday Inn," Paramount's new musical comedy starring Bing Crosby and Fred Astaire and featuring 11 new hit songs by Irving Berlin, moves to the Capitol theater today for a second week's engagement in Atlanta.

Woven around the various holidays observed in the United States, "Holiday Inn" presents Bing in the role of a crooner who turns his mountain home into a night club. Astaire, a dancer, plays the role of a carefree young man, who delights in winning the hearts of Bing's girl friends.

Marjorie Reynolds, a newcomer to the screen, does a great job as Astaire's dancing partner and blonde Virginia Dale is seen in a romantic role.

Melsher To Offer New Floor Show

Irving Melsher, popular band leader who is known to Atlanta dance crowds for his nimble piano fingers, will present another of his Saturday Night Dancing Parties at the Shrine Mosque ballroom, with floor show at 11 o'clock tomorrow night.

Headlining his new show will be the songs of Jane Holbrook, jitterbug singer, and Le Verne Curtis, hula dancer whose "Cockeyed Mayor" routine is a favorite with show crowds everywhere. Also appearing will be Frances Bennett, acrobatic dancer and the Adagio Trio. Melsher's band furnishes the dancipation.

JAPS NEARING PORT MORESBY—This map shows how Japanese forces have broken through the Owen Stanley mountain pass in New Guinea, and are advancing down the southern slopes towards Port Moresby (arrow), the great United Nations advance base on the south coast, less than 50 miles away.

on the south slopes of the mountains near the Allied base was not disclosed, but it was not believed large. Moreover, the foe probably had only light equipment due to the difficulty in transporting tanks and heavy guns through the narrow jungle-clad mountain passes.

Australian troops predominated among the Allied forces opposing the Japanese, although an unspecified number of American service troops including Negroes are based on Port Moresby. The tide of the battle was not disclosed. Allied fighters and bombers roared endlessly into the attack.

The supply problem of both sides was aggravated by equatorial rains which made the inadequate dirt roads and trails boggy. Headquarters said the fighting was under conditions of "extraordinary hardship and difficulty" after the Allied positions beyond the mountain summits had been outflanked. The fighting centered around the thatched village of Myola, 4,600 feet above sea level.

The Japanese were employing their familiar infiltration tactics that routed the British in Malaya and Burma. Port Moresby is 325 miles from the Australian mainland and has been developed as a base for about eight months. The Allied force there is believed large and capable of swift reinforcement from Australia, provided, of course, that Allied sea power is not too heavily involved in the Solomon Islands and at Milne Bay, at the extreme eastern tip of New Guinea, where a Japanese force was beaten and now is being mopped up.

Baseball Wins Ulster Acclaim

Baseball is swiftly gaining popularity in Northern Ireland and much has been done to make Ulster folk "baseball conscious." A number of worthy causes have benefited from games in Belfast, Carrickfergus, Bangor, and other centers. More than 6,000 saw one match in Belfast in which the California Eagles bested the New York Lions 9 to 6. The proceeds went to the Belfast Hospital for Children and Women. The Governor and the Duchess of Abercorn and Major General Russell P. Hartle, U. S. A., were among the distinguished persons present. Two military bands played popular music in which stirring Sousa marches were predominant.

Gas Dearth Hits Trade At Rio Janeiro, Brazil

Private automobiles were ordered off the streets of Brazil recently when gasoline ran short. All lines of trade depending on motor vehicle transportation were adversely affected. It is reported in Rio de Janeiro that plans are under way to convert 10,000 commercial motor vehicles into gas-gene-propelled apparatus to cope with the shortage.

Priority-Free Women's Hats Grow Higher and Wider

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—(P)—Higher, wider, and sometimes handsomer hats are pointing up all over New York this week—both in fashion shows and on heads. Obviously, this fall is destined to be the heyday of hats. It's because hats, almost alone in the fashion world, are free to follow their wildest fancies without government interference. They alone are priority-free. Felt and feathers are of no use whatever to the armament makers, it seems. With dresses restricted as to

Senate Completes Soldier Vote Bill

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—(P)—The senate completed congressional action today on a bill permitting service men to vote in primary and general elections for national officials without registration and without payment of poll taxes required by eight southern states.

It adopted and sent to the White House a conference report voted yesterday by the house embracing a group of senate amendments, including the controversial poll tax waiver, over protests from Senators Connally, Democrat, Texas, and Hill, Democrat, Alabama, that the measure was unconstitutional.

The parliamentary situation required the senate's ratification of its previous vote for the amendments.

Heat Experts Deliver Lectures

Experts at the Imperial College of Science in London are telling businessmen, engineers and plant managers who attend weekly lessons and demonstrations how to better the system of heating factories and at the same time reduce fuel consumption. The advice answers equally for the home where coal fires serve for cooking food and warming water, say the experts. Cracked bricks and fireclay beds must be made sound to prevent the escape of heat, and the metal parts that come in contact with the fire must be kept clean so that heat may penetrate more easily. With such details attended to, a professor shows, greater heat may be obtained at a far less expenditure of coal or coke.

Blackouts Irk Australia Solons

Collisions and bumps in blackouts in Canberra, capital of Australia, has stirred the ire of legislators and officials and they want regulations relaxed. Recently, Harold Colt, former minister for labor, collided with a concrete steel name-post when departing from Parliament House in one of Canberra's total blackouts after a house session. He demanded the post's removal, but the solons contented themselves with having white paper draped gracefully over the top. Then they reversed themselves, and had the post dug up. Laborite Arthur Calwell wants milder blackouts so that members may find their way home safely after late sittings of the house.

Bear Holds Up Duke In the Wilds of Ceylon

A black bear that tried to beat a train to a crossing somewhere between Kandy, ancient capital of Ceylon, and Trincomalee, halted the Duke of Gloucester's trip. It was a dead heat and a dead bear. The train pulled up so suddenly King George's brother was sharply roused from his slumbers. At Kandy he decorated Singapore officers and men with medals won in various war sectors.

Mrs. Robert Selfridge, Of McDonough, Dies

Mrs. Robert Selfridge Sr., of McDonough, died Wednesday night at a private hospital in Griffin after a short illness.

She is survived by her husband; two daughters, Mrs. John Alford and Miss Corrine Selfridge, of McDonough; three sons, Robert Selfridge Jr., of Baltimore, Md., and Everett and Jack Selfridge, of McDonough; her mother, Mrs. Iva Mosley, and a sister, Mrs. T. E. Smith, both of McDonough.

Funeral plans will be announced by Howard L. Carmichael.

Laurens To Buy Airfield Site

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
DUBLIN, Ga., Sept. 10.—The Laurens county board of commissioners has agreed to buy a tract of approximately 600 acres of land in the Bethesda community, five miles from here on the Macon road, for construction by the government of an emergency air landing field and airport.

Funds for purchase of the land will be raised by a five-mill county tax levy for the next two years.

The commissioners' action followed a public meeting of citizens, civic leaders and county officials to discuss means of raising funds for purchase of the site. A committee is now at work securing options on the land needed. The site to be used was selected by Army and Navy engineers. The construction will be done by the Civil Aeronautics Administration. Exactly how much money will be required to purchase the tract is not yet known, pending securing of all options sought. The federal government plans to spend over $700,000 on the plant.

Treasury Bond Issue 'Going Well'

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—(P)—Subscriptions to both sections of the government's large borrowing launched today and continuing tomorrow were reported "going well" as business offices closed.

Only routine efforts were required of the "victory fund committee," representing the nation's security dealers, which found buyers without hunting.

Although the securities—$1,500,000,000 in .065 per cent certificates of indebtedness and $1,500,000,000 in 1-14 per cent treasury notes, appeared aimed chiefly at large banks, many corporations were said to be subscribing.

Corporations, dealers pointed out, could receive a good return on their funds and dispose of the securities later when they were called upon to pay tax bills or other indebtedness.

ATLANTA, GA., SEPTEMBER 11, 1942.

Responsibility—And Opportunity

Few men in Georgia history have been faced, at so early an age, with the responsibility and the opportunity that rest today upon the shoulders of Governor-Nominate Ellis Arnall.

For many years to come the future greatness, and the future hopes, of Georgia depend upon the record that shall be made during the four years in which Arnall shall be governor.

If Ellis Arnall succumbs to the inevitable temptations which surround the gubernatorial office, if he permits selfish interests to take affairs of the state into their vampire control, Georgia voters will rise in wrath when next it comes time to elect a governor and will, in all probability, swing the pendulum of their votes back to the sort of factional and reckless state government with which the state has too long been plagued.

On the other hand, if Ellis Arnall but holds himself true to the ideals which today undoubtedly dominate his life and his hopes, if he devotes his utmost effort to bringing into effect the reforms promised in his campaign platform, Georgia, on next January 1, will stand on the threshold of a new day of prosperity and better life for every citizen and resident.

There have been many evils which have grown to sickening proportions during recent years in official Georgia affairs. These must be ended.

The shameful "pardon racket" must go. No longer must it be possible for convicted criminals to secure their freedom either through "influence" or by the use of money.

There must be a complete end to political interference in the affairs of the University of Georgia and its branches. The Board of Regents must be so constituted that it shall be forever removed from control of the governor or any other politically-elected official.

There must be an end to such political demagoguery which will stoop to creating false issues and agitating racial animosities just for the sake of winning votes.

Reform is needed in the handling of fiscal affairs of the state. The right to appropriate the state's money must be restored to the legislative branch, where it constitutionally belongs. No longer must any individual man, no matter what office he fills, hold the power of the purse-strings over departments of state government.

There are other reforms which cry aloud for enactment. These, however, are perhaps the most vital and the most urgent.

It is the prayer of every Georgian who loves his state that the legislature which will convene next January, simultaneous with the assumption of office by the new governor, will give fullest co-operation in finding the best solutions to these and other evils. Working together in harmony, the new governor and the new legislature can bring many blessings to Georgia. If factionalism and political rivalry enter the scene, it will precipitate a tragedy that will touch every man, woman and child in the state.

Ellis Arnall, emphatically chosen by the voters as their next governor, has been presented with the greatest opportunity to serve his state ever given a young man.

There can be no better watchword for Governor Arnall and his administration, as a guide and an assurance, than those famous words of William Shakespeare:

To thine own self be true,
And it must follow, as the night the day,
Thou shalt not then be false to any man.

War Is World Wide

"Competent air observers" in London are quoted as saying the present British-American policy of dispersal of strength over scattered world fronts is preventing an air front over Germany which might mean the difference between defeat and victory.

It should be stressed that the commentators are "air observers," and here again we find the dangerous narrow vision which sometimes affects proponents of various services and an argument against the creation of a separate air command.

Obviously it is regrettable that American air strength cannot be provided in sufficient quantity in the British Isles to batter Germany into disorganization if not defeat. Yet it is equally obvious that the strength cannot be provided until air production is sufficient. Diversion is a serious problem, yet is one which must be met before concentration is possible.

Let us assume our bomber strength had been concentrated in the British Isles. There would have been no bombers to harass the Japanese on New Guinea, containing them to eastern footholds on that island and blocking a pincer drive against northern Australia. There would have been no Flying Fortresses for the blows at Midway that probably saved Hawaii from Japanese invasion and the loss of our major fleet base in the Pacific. The conquest of Hawaii would have opened the way for direct attacks on the west coast, where the great airplane factories chiefly are located. The Panama Canal would be vulnerable had not great bombers been sent there to hold off threats with counterthreats.

That is not all. The United States did not maintain bomber forces of sufficient size in Alaska. The need was adjudged greater elsewhere. Now the Japanese have foothold in the Aleutians.

Again, the operations against the Solomons would have been impossible without bombers to neutralize Japanese air bases within striking distance of the Tugali group, and to strike directly at the island strongholds now held by the Marines. These islands then would have remained in Japanese hands as a direct threat to the supply lines to Australia and New Zealand.

It will be noted that all of the operations with the exception of those discussed by the "air observers" in the British Isles involved all arms of the services, ground troops, ships and planes. They were combined operations, while the airmen mentioned in the London story are thinking only in terms of air striking power against specific objectives.

The war will be won or lost by the victory or defeat of all three services. They must be brought into balance and kept in balance.

Yet here is the spectacle of air enthusiasts committing the same error they so blithely have charged to those in command of the Army and Navy ground and sea forces.

Rommel's "Malady"

Now come reports that Field Marshal Rommel is suffering from a "malady" and may soon be relieved of his command as head of the Afrika Korps. Those reports, you may rest assured, are true. The Marshal is a mighty sick man. He is suffering. He is ill. Because the highly-touted Nazi "genius" was beaten in the field.

That is the simple fact. Rommel attacked south of the El Alamein line. He attacked in force, with all the power at his command. The British and Americans met him—and bested him. When the score was added, the Marshal showed up very much on the short end. His attack came to naught. He lost tanks and men.

Now, Herr Hitler and the Prussian stiffbacks do not like defeats. They want victories. Any man who does not come through with victories is soon replaced. Usually, he becomes ill, suffers from a malady. That is the excuse. So it was with generals in Russia. So it is now with Rommel. It is all part of the Nazi pattern. Produce—or get sick. Rommel is sick.

Georgia Editors Say:

WIVES OF SOLDIERS SHOULD BE PERMITTED TO TEACH OUR SCHOOLS
(From The Gainesville News.)

Many of our schools have a rule that if a female teacher marries during a term she automatically retires at the end of that term. That rule was perhaps all right at the time it was put into effect and up to our country's entrance into the present war. However, it appears to us that such a rule should now be abolished because many of our married young men are being called to the colors and compelled to leave their wives behind who might be usefully employed as teachers in the school rooms of our country.

Even in industry we now find thousands of American women doing the things which were formerly done by men. In fact, women are now being drilled and taught the art of war in camps set up for that purpose. Some of these are married, while many others are still single. Surely the wives of our soldiers who are left behind, many of whom are experienced teachers, should be permitted to re-enter the school rooms of America and earn a living by following a profession in which they formerly rendered fine service.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

MARVELOUS BOMBING WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The performance of American Flying Fortresses over Nazi-occupied areas of France has been so remarkable they may revolutionize future Allied bombing operations against Germany.

Army air force officials haven't announced it yet, but the great American bombers are known to have piled up an amazing record of accuracy in their high-altitude daylight raids on German objectives.

Actually, the Fortresses have been hitting the target 25 per cent of the time when bombing from altitudes of 20,000 and 25,000 feet. By hitting the target it is meant that the big bombers have been laying their explosives down on the very building or which they were aiming—factories, power houses, railroad junctions and bridges. Not merely hitting the city or community where these objectives are located.

The British, who were at first skeptical about the practicability of the Fortresses, have been profoundly impressed by their performance. They have outlived, outgrown and out-fought any other comparable type of heavy bomber now in the air.

AND ON DEFENSE What they have accomplished on the defense is just as remarkable as their high accuracy on offensive bombing operations. After one of their early clashes with the Germans over France the British intercepted messages from the Nazi pilots expressing consternation at the heavy fire power the Fortresses put up against them. The German pilots, reporting to their home bases by wireless before landing, confessed an inability to cope with the great American ships.

In one battle over the English channel, between a squadron of our Fortresses and some 25 of the latest German fighters, we knocked out 12 of the Nazis without the loss of a single ship. More than a dozen daylight raids were made over Nazi-occupied territory by the American bombers before a one of them was reported missing. Up until a day or so ago only two of them had failed to come back.

This is an achievement which the air force of no other nation can boast. The Fortresses have been doing it day in and day out since they were brought into play on the European front by American pilots. They did it in the battle of Midway and they have been doing it right along in the South Pacific.

RESPONSIBLE FACTORS Aside from the high quality of our personnel, two factors are responsible for the spectacular success of the big American bombers: (1) the greater efficiency of the secret American bomb-sight, which is declared to be the best instrument of its kind in the world; and (2) the great speed of the Fortresses. They are only a few miles per hour slower than some of the fastest pursuit ships sent against them.

This means that the faster pursuit planes can make only one or two passes at the Fortresses before they are away and out of sight. In order to make a successful attack on the Fortresses, a pursuit ship has to dive on it from a higher altitude. If it doesn't get the bomber on the first attack it has to fall off and lose altitude. After regaining that altitude it has to overtake a plane which has almost as much speed as it has.

But the Fortresses are by no means presenting itself as an idle target during these attacks. They have the greatest concentration of fire power of any plane that flies. Guns bristle all over them. The Japs have long since learned that it is suicide for a single pursuit to go up against the huge bombers. At Midway they had already learned the lesson and gave the Fortresses a wide berth.

MAY CHANGE TACTICS As a result of the high degree of accuracy shown by the Fortresses in making one out of every four bombs hit the target at 20,000 feet and more, the British are considering a drastic revision in their bombing operations. The most of their raids have been conducted at night, which means that a pattern had to be laid down against a general area in order to hit some specified target. The Fortresses, flying in daylight, are able to pick out the target and hit it one out of every four times.

The future emphasis, therefore, will likely be on daylight high-altitude bombing, enabling a view of the particular target that is the objective.

The chief criticism directed at the Fortresses by the British in the beginning was that they do not have sufficient bomb capacity. It was claimed they would only carry about three and one-half tons on trips to the continent, whereas some of the British types had a load capacity of eight tons.

ADDED BOMB RACKS Colonel John H. Jouett, president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, has since corrected this impression. The Fortresses, which extend their capacity beyond what the British bombers have. They are among the finest specimens of aircraft the world has yet developed. Under the circumstances, it is a pity to hear such squawks as de Sevresky harp on the inferiority of American equipment. People who are informed on the facts say he should explain to the world what he knows more of what he is shouting about. His yelping against American planes tends to lower the production morale and destroy confidence in the quality of the aircraft products we are building. General H. H. Arnold, chief of the Army Air Force, is entitled to the fullest credit for what has been done.

Some Facts About India.

It is extremely difficult for the people of an Occidental democracy, such as the United States, to understand conditions in a vast Oriental land such as India. This inability to understand is rendered worse when information we have about India is confused by wild statements and misleading revelations.

Our own politicians is to gain popular support. Regardless of how they feel, demagogues, to be brief.

So, it seemed to me important to use this column in the little corner where it is seen, to disseminate a few bits of factual information about India which some of you may not know.

To begin with, on that much publicized issue of Indian "freedom," Britain has offered, without strings or conditions, full self-government to India after the war. India does not even have to remain a member of the British Commonwealth of Nations if she does not desire.

Any Indian constitution framed immediately after cessation of hostilities will be accepted by the British. They have pledged that, too. In case some one of the various Indian provinces should not agree with that proposed constitution, Britain will recognize that province's independence separately.

Ten of Eleven.

Of all judges in India, 10 of every 11 are Indians. In Indian civil service there are 632 Indian officials and 573 British. In general administrative jobs in government there are eight Indians to one British, in civil medical departments, 30 Indians to one British, in higher grades of engineering departments, 14 Indians to one British.

There are 11 provinces in Indian and the central government corresponds roughly to our federal government with the 11 provinces like our states. In addition there are 562 Indian states, some huge territories, some little places hardly larger than a good farm. Each of these Indian states is ruled by its own

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Eleanor's Power NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—In the last few days we have had three sharp demonstrations on the great power that Mrs. Roosevelt wields over the lives and fortunes of the American people.

First, there was the so-called congress of the militant youth of 53 nations in Washington last week under the nominal auspices of the International Student Service, which is Mrs. Roosevelt's own youth movement as distinguished from the Catholic and other youth movements. Mrs. Roosevelt's own youth movement is a descendant, by a devious line, of the Communist front youth fakes with which her bumptious friend, Joe Lash, has been associated boy and man, for a dozen years. It professes to oppose dictatorship and oppression, but is, nevertheless, cordial to Communists whose record in Russia is no better than Adolf Hitler's in Germany and the conquered lands and who are as fiercely hostile to all four of the most freedoms as Hitler, himself.

Last week a lot of youths assembled in Washington, loud ballyhoo was sounded, and President Roosevelt then gave Mrs. Roosevelt's new deal youth front the highest recognition by delivering an important speech to the assembled delegates.

On Labor Day, the President, in both his speeches, advanced the proposal that individual incomes should be taxed in such a way as to give the practical equivalent of a top limit on an individual's net income, after taxes, approximately $25,000.

Disaff Approval Mrs. Roosevelt first endorsed this plan as "a constructive suggestion" last April, a few days after it had originated in the United Auto Workers of the CIO, the same organization which struck the American aviation plant in Los Angeles before Hitler attacked Russia and at a time when the Communists in this country were doing their worst to cripple the effort of the American people to arm for inevitable war. The President, himself, denounced the Communist inspiration of this blockade around the plant and sent troops to disperse the rioters and provide safe and free access for American workers to their war jobs. It was never a real strike, but only an attempt by agents of a foreign power, meaning Moscow, to keep the United States and Britain helpless in the face of Moscow's ally of the moment, Adolf Hitler.

The unionists turned patriotic after Hitler struck Russia and last April proposed the $25,000 limit on individual incomes of Americans. The union bosses offered, in return, to "forego all demands for double pay for Sundays and holidays and time and a half for overtime." This offer sounded so generous that naturally it aroused suspicions. These were soon confirmed. The fine print revealed that the unions would waive such extra pay as to workers whose two days off per week occurred on Sunday and Saturday. Naturally, in the course of their regular five-day, 40-hour week, those workers would work Saturdays and Sundays, and would not deserve overtime pay, but there were hardly any of them.

Cloudy Offer The union also offered to invest all overtime pay of the members in war bonds, but without explaining whether the bonds were to be held by the union as a political slush fund or delivered to the individual workers. Probably the union planned to hold the money and members rarely get back any money of theirs which falls into the clutches of the union-bosses.

Mrs. Roosevelt thought this $25,000 limitation was very nice, and a few weeks later the President offered the idea to congress which rejected it on the grounds that it set a top limit on individual earning power. So now he has rejiggered it slightly, substituting a tax to accomplish the same effect.

It is still an original contribution by a group which tried to disarm the American soldier, but Mrs. Roosevelt gave it a big boost and the President has offered it to congress twice, this time in the imperative voice.

Another Eleanorism Thirdly, it will be noticed that Paul McNutt, after many false starts, finally has ordered that workers in certain industries in the west and southwest be forbidden to change jobs without obtaining, in each case, a "certificate of separation" from the U. S. Employment Service. The certificate will be very hard to get.

This follows Mrs. Roosevelt's line, too, for also during the month of April she sounded the first proposal of the administration that "all of us, men and women in the services and men and women at home, should be drafted and told what we are to do."

Mrs. Roosevelt explained that this conclusion had come from "a very interesting discussion Sunday afternoon in the White House."

Mrs. Roosevelt is overmodest when she insists that she is only a private citizen who wields no influence on the government. The lady is one of our rulers and is the author or co-author of some of the most drastic changes in the status of the American people under their government.

day. More about India on a later date.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Tuesday, September 11, 1917: "Portland, Maine, September 10.—Equal suffrage for Maine women won; defeated two-to-one at the special election today, according to newspaper returns tonight, two-thirds of the state. The total for 438 out of 635 election precincts, including all cities, was 17,035 in favor, and 31,807 opposed."

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

CLOSE TO THE PEOPLE Old Andy Jackson was no maker of epigrams. He spoke plainly and now and then something he said would become an epigram and be remembered as long as men talked of him.

Once he said, to a young man asking advice about politics: "Never get far away from the people. They rarely are wrong."

Georgia won a great victory Wednesday. They elected Ellis Arnall by a large margin of unit and popular votes, not because he was Ellis Arnall but because he believed in things, and stood for things, close to them.

They wanted their children to have schools as good as those in the other states of the Union and so recognized.

They wanted their teachers to be happy in their jobs. How can a teacher teach a young boy or girl to believe in the American democracy, the American way, the Georgia way, if that teacher is in constant fear of a political ax? The people know that sort of thing instinctively.

They felt very strongly about the reckless pardoning of criminals. They had learned to respect the old state patrol. They knew this was a political machine.

The people knew Ellis Arnall never got very far away from the people. The result was he won a victory which is one of the most amazing in Georgia's political history.

The man in office always has an advantage. The Governor was well financed. The financial advantage was all on his side. This year the Governor's forces admitted a real statewide organization. This was one race in which there seemed to be a minimum of "fixing."

It was all hard work. The county leaders kept an eye "on their corks." Perhaps no harder work was ever done to win votes, to get out the votes, and to get the votes to the ballot boxes. It was a brass-knucks sort of campaign with a lot of grunting and sweating in it.

The fact that Arnall has more than 260 unit votes means that his victory, by so substantial a margin, is one of the greatest in the state's history—because none has won against odds so great.

CONTESTS IMPROBABLE It was reported yesterday that some of the Governor's advisors were urging that some of the close counties be contested. It would not be good politics to contest.

In the first place the records show that Ellis Arnall lost as many by close votes as did the Governor. With the exception of about a dozen counties, all Arnall's majorities were good ones. In the second place the Governor polled more than 100,000 votes. He still is a political factor and a political threat. He contested the result in 1938.

If he were to protest, or contest, any results in this race it would have the effect of making him a chronic defier. The people soon turn against that sort of person.

The people don't like a man who can't take a defeat without squawking. There is less evidence of any "fixing" in this campaign than in any in years.

Arnall's unit vote will be better than two to one. It was a clean-cut, emphatic victory. The Governor, realizing that he is still a political factor, will hardly let his angry advisors urge him into contesting for the sake of contesting. If he does there is nothing to be gained. He can lose some of his strength.

He will hardly want to stamp himself as that sort of candidate. The primary is over.

NEWSPAPER WORK I was particularly proud of the part played by the newspapers of Georgia in this campaign. They entered vigorously into it. They had something to say. They said it. There were newspapers on both sides. It so happened, quite inevitably, that Mr. Arnall had the support of those newspapers sincerely interested in the state; those which believed the school system and the other functions of the state were important and worth as much attention as the bigness as the bigness.

The campaign's conclusion found me tremendously proud of the part played by the newspapers. There was a minimum of personalities exchanged in the newspapers. Only one or two indulged in that unworthy and ineffective method of editorial campaigning. They got what they deserved.

The newspapers, daily and weekly, stuck to the issues and the candidates. They did discuss these issues and these candidates fearlessly and with intelligence. They patiently and courageously stuck to the issues.

I do not think that ever in the history of Georgia have the newspapers done so fine a job, from the standpoint of character and effectiveness. It demonstrated that the counties and the communities of the state will react to vigorous "here-are-the-issues" journalism.

So, the election is done. The people of Georgia voted to retain their schools and their credits; for their kids, for their newspapers, teachers and people to be free.

The election is done. I had a swell time. In the words of Mr. W. Moore, "I ain't mad with nobody." And never have been. It was fun. But winning was important. Let's all go forward together. The election is behind us.

A Little Money Will Now Perform the Equivalent of a Miracle By ROBERT QUILLEN.

When Teddy Roosevelt was a little fellow, his parents thought him backward. He seemed bright enough at home, but he couldn't make progress in school as the other kids did.

He was a frail little thing, afflicted with chronic asthma, and this was the excuse his parents used to explain his dullness. It takes energy to study books, and a sick boy doesn't have it.

Teddy thought himself dull, too. He concentrated on his books more resolutely than the other kids, but he couldn't make them mean anything. He felt ashamed.

One afternoon, when his asthma made breathing unusually difficult, his father took him buggy riding in the country, hoping the cleaner air would enable him to breathe easier.

Driving slowly to avoid stirring up dust, the father tried to entertain the boy by calling attention to familiar birds and roadside shrubs. Thus he made the discovery that Teddy was almost blind. It seems incredible that the truth should have been hidden from him so long, for he was a doctor and more observant than average men. It may have been the old story of the shoemaker's unshod children.

Teddy told the story in his autobiography many years later. He said he had learned to school only by listening to the other kids. It never occurred to him that his vision was not normal. He took it for granted that all eyes were like his; and when he saw only a gray blur on the printed page, he thought his classmates saw the same thing and wondered how they made sense of it. No wonder he thought himself dull.

I thought of his tragic childhood recently when two teachers in a controlling school told me about their "backward" pupils. All are country children whose parents are too poor to buy glasses for them. They are backward in their school work simply because they can't see. Printed pages in their books are not filled with meaningful symbols, but are merged in a gray blur that means nothing.

We do not go so far to find tragedy. And no one has lived in vain who can say: "I gave sight to a child."

OFF THE RECORD—By Ed Reed

ED REED

Dudley Glass

According to the returns Georgia will be blessed at the next session of the legislature by a number of bright young men who are eloquent speakers and rising young lawyers and most excellent citizens. Which is fine, for an infusion of new blood always helps.

I am thinking of what these new members, bearing the first time the responsibility of making laws for their state, are going to be up against.

Their eloquence will have small bearing on the situation. "Mr. Speaker!" is likely to be the extent of their oratorical debut. The house has long appreciated the importance of electing a speaker who is deaf in one ear—right or left, as convenient—and extremely nearsighted.

This is distinctly unfair to young members who have used up 11 pounds of tablet paper preparing an initial speech which will ring down through the ages. But it does expedite legislation.

Another problem which faces the young members is that of unauthorized perquisites, crudely termed graft.

The high-minded young statesman is determined that no tainted money shall sully his fingers. More than that, he will go to Atlanta intent on running down the grafters and exposing them on the floor of the house—or the senate, as the case may be. If that doesn't work he will write a letter to the newspapers.

Personally, I have neither written my country's song nor made its laws, having a bum ear for music and failing to receive any delegations urging me to accept public office.

I am thinking of an old chap, a veteran member of our general assembly, who spun me a yarn one night over the remainder of a gallon of as fine a grade of white corn as ever came out of Coffee county, then famous for its illicit spirits.

Among the Lobbyists
"It's been a long time ago, son," he said, "since I came up to the legislature, hardly dry behind the ears and helibent on reform."

"I had made up my mind that no insidious lobbyist for the big interests could buy my vote or influence. I was just layin' for the first one to make a stab at me."

"I got a cheap room in a boardin' house—a legislator's pay was $4 a day in those days, with mileage. It was pretty lonesome, so I spent my evenin's loafin' around the old Kimball House lobby, the real capitol of Georgia, everybody said."

"I could see the emissaries of the various devils here and there—they were pointed out to me. And every now and then one of them would engage a lawmaker in conversation and they'd take

Unusual Articles Go to Scrap Pile

SAVANNAH, Ga., Sept. 10.—(P) A venerable printing press, an aged mowder, and a collection of Confederate cannon balls are bound for the scrap metal collection heap here, salvage committee Chairman Martin T. Price of the Savannah-Chatham county defense council reported.

Price said the printing press was being contributed to the scrap drive by Luke P. Pettus, newspaperman and publisher of the Pettus City Directory; the mowder by Nick Constantine, who felt it might be used to help mow down the Axis instead of doing further farm duty; and the cannon balls by Mrs. Walter Lucas, who had them at her home.

The elevator to a room. Presumably, where the fat rolls of greenbacks would be passed over. "That kinder inked me, son. I knew there was crime goin' on, but I couldn't get no evidence. I decided I'd scrape acquaintance with one or two of these disciples of Satan and when one of them offered me money I'd nail him to the wall."

"The ones I met were pretty nice fellows. They gave me a drink or so and talked about affairs back home. One of 'em wanted to take me to his church the next Sunday. But nobody said anything about money except one. I lent him four dollars to pay his laundry bill because his check from a big corporation hadn't arrived. So he said, I never did learn what corporation it was."

"What, No Tempter?"
"It looked like temptation wasn't comin' my way, and how can you fight the devil if he don't show up?"

"Pretty soon there was a big bill comin' up for passage, with a tough fight on it. And I got to thinkin'."

"My expenses in gettin' elected had been pretty heavy and I owed a note at the bank and had a mortgage on the house back home. And I kinder felt four dollars a day was no fair pay for a man who had abandoned his legal career at home to serve his state."

"So I says to myself that this was a good bill and I had made up my mind to vote for it anyway, and if I was goin' to vote for it anyway why not pick up a little cash—I heard there was plenty floatin' around—to sorter help me catch up back home?"

"Son, I laid myself open and I put out. I dropped hints here and there. Fact is, I broadcast hints. "And nobody ever said a word. The bill passed by three to one. I was so mad I voted against it, which didn't help when I had to explain back home."

"So you don't think," I suggested, "that the aspiring young statesman is unduly subjected to financial temptations?"

"Son," said the oldtimer. "He and his vote ain't worth a darn to nobody. He can go through a couple of terms and remain as pure as the driven snow."

"But what about veterans like you?" I asked. "You have acquired influence and leadership? Does the devil ever approach you?"

"There are some questions, son, you shouldn't ask," said the oldtimer. "I wish you'd come down to see me when the huntin' season opens. I started in with the legislature with a diploma and three law books. Now I've got three of the prettiest farms in my county."

Gallup Poll Discusses: Forced Membership in Unions

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 10.—The American public has been ready for at least six months to accept a manpower mobilization program for war industries. But it does not believe that workers thus mobilized by the government should be required to join labor unions.

On the contrary, when a non-union worker takes a job in a factory at the order of the government, the public thinks he should be able to go to work without joining a union.

The question is one of the most ticklish and controversial problems facing the War Manpower Commission. As war production mounts, millions of additional workers must be found to man the machines. At present only about one-fourth to one-third of all the workers in the country are unionized.

The basic issue is whether the Wagner Labor Act should be construed to apply to workers who are mobilized into war industries by government order, rather than voluntarily.

The question of labor unions in the manpower mobilization program was placed before the country by the Institute in the following form:

"At the present time, workers who take jobs in some war factories that have unions must join the union before they can start work. Do you think that workers who start to work in a factory because the government has told them to, should have to join the union, or should they be able to go to work without joining the union?"

The public's attitude is shown in the following vote:

Should be made to join 17%
Should not have to join 76%
No opinion 7%

Today's vote on the labor union aspect of the issue does not mean that the country is opposed to labor unions as such.

The public is, however, critical of certain practices in the labor union movement.

CIVIL SERVICE DIRECTOR ON PUBLICITY VALUES

Editor, Constitution: Your cooperation in giving us the wide amount of publicity for the past two months is greatly appreciated. It has been one of our greatest sources of obtaining the necessary personnel for the War Agencies which, as you no doubt know, are very vital at this time. It is such co-operation as your paper has been so kind to give us that has enabled us to do our job in manning the various War Agencies for our fighting forces.

We are pleased to know that we can depend on your institution for any future aid that you may be able to extend to us.

having to hurry away every morning to take us. Of course, when it's raining, you might want to take us, but that will not be so often."

"That's right, Mom," said Sim between gulps of his big bowl of cereal. "We ain't babies any more. This business of carrying us around in your arms has been mighty sweet of you, but we've got to save those tires. Dad might be coming home sooner than we think, and he'll need them to see all these sick folks. What's more, we want to do our part in winning this war, and back home every afternoon is one way we can help. The walking will do us good, anyway."

"Well..." And now the tears were welling up again, and the mother couldn't swallow. Sim and Sue wisely turned the conversation to the funny paper—what Dick Tracy and Smitty and all the rest of them were doing. Mary brought in the crisp waffles and syrup, and breakfast was soon ended. Sim was brushing his teeth and making a final effort to part his hair, while Sue was gathering up his scattered books and trying to locate the pencil that he had dropped behind the bed the night before. And there they were going down the driveway, waving their goodbye to the mother on the front porch.

"Telephone, Miss Susan."

"All right, Mary, but tell them I'll be there in a minute. How can I talk now?"

It was one of the doctor's patients who had not learned that he had gone with the Emory Unit, but when the explanation was made, the voice came back:

"Sure, we'll get along. I'll telephone the drug store and tell them to fill that prescription he gave us last year for flu. I am sure it will do the job. . . . And let me tell you, my doctor, I was never so proud of my doctor. Those fine boys need him more than we do. We'll just watch ourselves a little more closely, and maybe we will not be sick this winter. And we'll pray for him and for the men to whom he will be ministering. . . ."

"The mail, Miss Susan."

"Thanks, Mary. Ah! His handwriting. Let's see what he has to say. . . . And that letter from Sonny and my little black-eyed Susan. Did they let you read it? Sonny went on to tell me what he is doing, now that he is the man of the place! Said that he's the bravest soldier of them all. And Sue, bless her heart, she said she was trying to answer the phone for you. . . . Who knows but that this very experience through which we are passing will prove the greatest blessing imaginable to our precious children. Remember our verse, Romans 8:28 . . ."

stitution's contribution to the present is in itself something for which the community can congratulate itself.

The Constitution's approach to the problems of the day has been realistic and it has not hesitated to be ahead of the public in its realization, especially of the danger that is threatening this country long before December 7.

The future is our hope and we can feel sure that, as in the past, The Constitution will carry on. The reputation of The Constitution is well earned and sometimes I wonder whether the state and city appreciate the real contribution that is being made through the editorial policy of the paper to our present-day civilization.

University Offers More Scholarships

A statement issued yesterday by the office of Rufus E. Clement, president of Atlanta University, revealed that a number of large scholarships, some of which include tuition and other fees, are still available for a limited number of applicants who plan to enroll in the graduate school for the new term opening September 22.

Several changes have been made in the faculty and personnel of the University for this school year. Charlotte Templeton, librarian since 1931, retired at the close of the summer session. Also retiring was Helen Mathewson, who served during the summer as secretary and as assistant librarian.

An addition to the faculty is Dr. Ambrose L. Suhrie, who will serve as guest professor this year. He was professor of education at John B. Stetson University, from which he was graduated.

WPA Receiving Building Requests

H. E. Harman Jr., state administrator of the Work Projects Administration, announced yesterday that requests for construction projects as well as for maintenance and operation of public facilities projects (under the Lanham act) can be filed with area superintendents and area supervisors located in Atlanta, Augusta, Albany, Cartersville, Gainesville, Macon and Savannah.

Harman asks that before requests are submitted it be determined that the construction or services requested are in a critical defense area and essential to the war effort.

INJURED, BUT VOTES.

VALDOSTA, Ga., Sept. 10.—(P) Despite injuries from a fall which sent her to the hospital, Mrs. Ralph Myddelton voted in the state Democratic primary yesterday. She was taken to the courthouse in an ambulance so that she could mark her ballot.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature is warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there's something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Two Votes Are Lucky For Camden Legislator

WOODBINE, Ga., Sept. 10.—(P) Robert W. Ferguson was elected Camden county representative to the Georgia legislature by two votes two years ago.

He was renominated by two votes yesterday. Official returns gave him 308 votes; C. L. Claxton, 306.

U. S. Bombers Raid Tobruk; Tanks in Action

Fires, Explosions Sighted in Target Area at Axis Base.

CAIRO, Sept. 10.—(P)—Heavy U. S. Army bombers raided Tobruk last night, the United States headquarters announced tonight. Fires and explosions were seen in the target area.

British mobile columns and artillery engaged small parties of Axis tanks yesterday in the southern sector of the Egyptian desert front west of El Himeimat, British headquarters announced.

Activity Tuesday night was reported limited to general patrol work and artillery exchanges in the northern and central sectors.

"Air activity over the battle area was on a reduced scale," the British communiqué said, "although our light bombers scored hits on lorries on the Sidi Barrani-Matruh road."

Long-range fighters shot a Messerschmitt 109 into the Mediterranean and Malta fliers downed two Axis fighters over Sicily, it was announced.

Aerial Assaults Reported by Nazis.

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), Sept. 10.—(P)—German dive-bombers heavily attacked British positions on the Egyptian battlefield yesterday, scoring direct hits on artillery and tank units, the Nazi high command reported today.

The communiqué made no reference to further desert land operations.

Plane Crash In Africa Kills Marcus Corley

Wife, Former Atlantan, Receives Word of Death Last Month.

Marcus L. Corley Jr., 28, a navigator for the Pan-American Ferries and husband of the former Miss Frances Boatwright, of Atlanta, was killed in an airplane crash in Africa in August, it was learned here last night.

His wife recently received word of the accident at their home in Miami.

A native of Louisiana, Corley graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1936. Following his graduation he was a special agent in Florida for the Maryland Casualty Company.

He was married to Miss Boatwright in June, 1940, and they lived in St. Augustine, Fla., before moving to Miami, where he joined Pan-American Ferries.

Besides his wife, he is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Corley Sr., of Zwolle, La., and a brother, Glyn J. Corley, of Natchitoches, La.

Nippon 'Lauds' Burned Earth Policy of U. S.

Jap Propaganda Sheet Unintentionally Gives Tribute to America.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—(P)—A copy of a Japanese propaganda magazine, printed in English in Shanghai, came to this capital today, bearing unintentionally a tribute to American scorched earth policy.

A photograph of the Cavite naval base, near Manila, in flames appeared among illustrations of an article captioned "America's 'Scorched Earth' policy causes more damage than Japanese bombs." The "scorched earth" policy, the magazine noted, "was in evidence everywhere" when the Japanese forces entered the capital of the Philippine Islands.

Japanese propagandists travel with the material when a country is invaded, the magazine disclosed. A group of Malay natives was shown gathered about a Japanese soldier in Malaya, the caption mentioning that "Japanese propaganda corps" then distributed pamphlets to the natives, which told them of Japan's true intentions.

The propaganda publication contains a statement that "No U. S. warplane has dared show itself over Nippon soil," a statement the author presumably regretted on April 18 when Doolittle's raiders bombed Japan's greatest cities. Although the publication bore no date, advertisements indicated it went to press before the American bomber visitation.

Home-Made Guns Splutter, Then Take Lives of Couple

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—(P)—After a last walk in their garden, after their last talk in 50 years together, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Podulinski sat down quietly before two home-made guns and Joseph lit the fuses in the waiting weapons.

They were eager for death, but the guns were stubborn. Half a dozen times Joseph struck matches in the darkness of the tool shed last night where he had built the guns, and half a dozen times the fuses spluttered out. Perhaps his hands were trembling.

But at last the guns fired. Joseph Podulinski, 71, and his wife, Mrs. Joseph, 68, were sitting in chairs opposite the guns, which were held by a vice.

I will not be responsible for debts made by anyone than myself.

Churchill Sees Jap 5th Columnists in India

LONDON, Sept. 10.—(P)—Prime Minister Churchill today rejected any immediate compromise settlement of India's internal troubles and accused the All-India Congress party of attempting an open revolution possibly aided by Japanese Fifth Columnists.

In a statement to the house of commons, Churchill declared the Cripps proposals for postwar freedom for India, which the Congress Party and other major Indian political groups turned down last night, represented the "settled policy" of Great Britain.

He told a questioner that he had no reason to believe there was any tendency in India today to accept the Cripps proposals and asserted an agreement on India's constitutional questions was difficult "with invasion not far off."

The prime minister also declared that the course of events in India had been improving "and is, on the whole, reassuring."

"Large reinforcements have reached India and the number of white soldiers now in India is larger than at any time in the British connection," Churchill said.

He noted that "communications of Indian forces defending Bengal and on the Assam frontier had been specially attacked" in recent disorders and said it was quite possible "these activities by the Congress Party have been aided by Japanese Fifth Column work."

At the same time, he continued, the Congress has only demonstrated its inability to win over the Indian Army or officials or even stir the country's masses.

Expressed Hopes Dashed.

He concluded that the situation in India "at this moment gives no occasion for undue despondency or alarm."

Before the prime minister spoke, L. S. Amery, secretary of state for India, told commons questioners that "there is no room for negotiations in the circumstances which Mr. Gandhi (Mohandas Gandhi, leader of the Congress Party's campaign for independence) has described as open rebellion."

He thus dashed hopes expressed in the British parliament and press that negotiations would be undertaken to end disturbances in India and win the full support of her 390,000,000 people for the war effort of the United Nations.

Congress Party Attacked.

Churchill attacked the Congress Party as a "political organization measuring strength against the government of India."

A proposal for a vote to show whether the house approved his statement was turned down by Churchill but he suggested that a full-dress debate with a vote might be arranged later.

Dolly Hewlett To Be Second Of Last Year's Debs To Wed

• • • • • WHEN DOLLY HEWLETT marries Allen Alexander on September 19 at the Cathedral of Christ the King, she will be the second member of last season's Debutante Club to marry. (Karen Norris married Jimmie Sibley last spring, and four more of the club members will marry within the next three months.) Dolly's forthcoming marriage is rather significant news today, for the new crop of debs will organize this morning at the Driving Club.

Dolly, who was christened Clare, and Allen announced their engagement last Sunday and yesterday completed plans for the ceremony, which will take place at 4:30 o'clock. No invitations will be issued for the marriage, for the pair have chosen to be wed in the presence of only members of their immediate families and a small group of friends who will receive verbal invitations.

Samuel D. Hewlett will give his daughter in marriage and Allen will have his brother, James Alexander, as his best man. Mary Lewis, a lifelong friend of the bride-elect, will be maid of honor and Dolly's only attendant. The ushers will be Tom Lewis, Hamilton Yancey, of Rome, Dolly's uncle; William Cochran and W. L. Ingalls.

Allen and Dolly will leave at once for a wedding trip and will reside in Talladega, Ala., where the former is in business.

Because of the brief time between their announcement and the date of their wedding, Dolly and Allen have been forced to decline many parties which would have been given in their honor. However, a few have been crowded into the remaining week, including the dinner party planned for tomorrow evening by Jane Hilsman. Next Tuesday, Frances Alston will be hostess at a bridge party, and the following day Margaret Harmon will entertain at a luncheon at the Mirador Room of the Capital City Club. Thursday is the date selected by Mary Lewis for a shower at which she will entertain at her home on Palisades road, and on the eve of the wedding after the rehearsal, Dolly and Allen will be honored at a party, the plans for which will be announced later.

• • • • • ALICE JOHNSON is busy these days getting ready to return to Sweet Briar, where she will be a junior and where she has been named in a group of 30 carefully chosen students who will welcome the newcomers and help them during that trying period of orientation which begins next Monday and ends with the formal opening exercises next Thursday evening. The school's charming president, Dr. Meta Glass, who is well known in Atlanta, will address the students and introduce the new faculty members at the opening.

Alice, who is the lovely daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Trimble Johnson, is a member of the student Y. W. C. A. cabinet at Sweet Briar. She will help to welcome five Atlanta girls who are entering as freshmen, the Party Is Planned For Miss Yundt And Lt. Bethea

A delightful affair planned for tomorrow evening is the buffet supper at which Miss Virginia Dulaney will entertain at 7 o'clock at her home on Rivers road. The party will compliment Miss Caroline Yundt and Lieutenant Charles Bethea, whose marriage will be a brilliant event of October 2.

Pastel flowers in profusion will beautify the home, and later in the evening the hostess and her guests will attend the Saturday evening dance at the Piedmont Driving Club.

Invited are Miss Yundt, Misses Lillian Roberts, Marjorie Troutman, Keeker Newton, of Forsyth; Marion Knowles, and Lieutenant Bethea, Beekman Huger, John Rathmell and Lieutenant Hamilton Lokey, U. S. N.

Sigma Phi Omegas Are Party Hosts

The Delta Mu chapter of Sigma Phi Omega, national academic fraternity, entertained last evening with a hay ride and spaghetti supper at the American Legion clubhouse at North Fulton park.

The officers of the fraternity are Bobby Smith, president; Bob McCann, vice president; Frank Jarrell, secretary-treasurer; Jimmy Hodge, sergeant-at-arms, and Jack O'Keefe, pledge master.

The young ladies present were Miss Florence Akers, sponsor of the fraternity; Misses Betty Tucker, Sug Brumby, Lathrenee Ennis, Katherine Harwell, Frances Gwinn, Suzanne Schilling, Snookie Ozburn, Barbara Hirsch, Patsy Robinson, Betty Ann Wingo, Phoebe Gavan, Virginia Bowen, Ruth Maroney, Mary Willis, Catherine Davis, Jane Brewbaker, Mynele Grove, Julia Pennington and Ann Cogburn.

Members of the fraternity are Lee Pinkard, Bill Underwood, Henry Johnson, Elmer Dunn, Leo Wasson, Cameron LeCraw, Len Chason, David LeBeau, Vance Hopkins, George Dunbar, Rensie Coleman, Dan Beall, Gray Lambert, Bumby Ozburn, Charlie Wooten, Norman Fowke and Jimmy Barton.

Chaperons for the affair were Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Pinkard, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Jack B. Davis.

Hollywood Brings to the Screen The Old Time Minstrel Show

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 10.—(INS) The Lou Dockstaders, the Eddie Leonards and all the black-faced minstrel entertainers who were the popular Mr. Bones of their day, are returning to us via the movies. Yes, indeed. M-G-M has bought "Gentlemen Be Seated," a cavalcade of minstrels from 1859 to their decline about 25 years ago. Gene Kelly, dancer de luxe, who is so good in "Me and

By Louella Parsons.

My Gal," is slated for "Mr. Bones No. 1." I was fascinated hearing Arthur Fred tell about this minstrel movie which will have 150 people and also greatly interested to hear the very intellectual music critic, Sigmond Spoth, is co-author. He and Dailey Paskman wrote this comprehensive history of blackface entertainment and Jack McGowan is whipping up the story.

Remember I told you a few weeks ago that Loretta Young, Hollywood's best commuter, has settled down to make two pictures a year for Paramount? Well, her first is a Chinese epic, "The Fourth Brother," which naturally Para hopes will be a "Mrs. Miniver" of China. Loretta plays the only white woman in the story. Interesting too, because Alan ("Gun for Hire") Ladd has the juvenile lead, and Paul Muni is about to sign a contract for the third starring role. Paul Played Wang in "The Good Earth," and while a few objected to his make-up, most of the fans gave him an okay.

While Sir Alex Korda is in England he will discuss his new $3,000,000 movie, "War and Peace," with British financiers. He is still releasing his product through United Artists, but this elaborate spectacle, dealing with the current problems of a war-torn world and the necessary demands for an enduring peace, will probably be released through M-G-M. It is the most pretentious movie yet made by Korda and one of the most expensive to be produced by any company in a long time. He is planning to make part of it in Canada.

In my wanderings around the studio last week I heard Mack Sennett and Jerry Wald huddled to talk over "The Life of Mack Sennett." Sorry to hear the deal didn't go through, for if ever there was a natural in the way of movie entertainment, Mack's colorful career is it. Think of all the girls who started as bathing beauties—Phyllis Haver, Gloria Swanson, Mabel Norman, Bebe Daniels, Louise Fazenda, Carole Lombard, Sally Eilers. All these girls later became top stars. Then there were the Keystone Comedies with Chester Conklin, Ben Turpin and Ford Sterling, and "Tillie's Punctured Romance," with Charlie Chaplin and the late Marie Dressler. Good heavens, when you look back, Mack gave most of the town its start, so why shouldn't we glorify him?

MY DAY: Roosevelt Home For Seamen

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday.—At 12:30 yesterday I flew up with Admiral S. Land to attend the opening of the first convalescent home, which the United Seamen's Service, Inc., is opening. Major and Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt have given their home, "Moyamensing," in Oyster Bay, to the committee for the duration of the war.

Since Major Roosevelt is in Alaska, and their sons are either in the service or working for the government, she had to hand over the keys herself. It was a very nice ceremony, and I saw a number of my Oyster Bay Roosevelt cousins, which was equally pleasant. I was sorry that Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Sr. was not well enough to be there herself, for I am sure she is glad to have one of her son's homes used this way during the war.

We were driven out and back by Captain Sullivan, of the A.V.S., so I was at my apartment in New York City by 6 o'clock. Some friends came to see me and then I dined with a friend and caught the night train for Washington. As I got off the train this morning, it was hard for me to realize that I had been gone only about 18 hours.

At noon today a young lady came to see me about the program to teach senior high school students something about aviation. I have already mentioned it in my column. She tells me the program is open to both boys and girls, and all but four states are putting it into their public schools. In New York state, the legislature is granting a sum of money to cover the cost of the necessary equipment. If all the legislatures do not follow this procedure, money for equipment will probably have to be raised from state groups.

An anonymous letter came to me the other day, asking me to answer a problem in my column. Through Mr. Earl Harrison, commissioner of immigration and naturalization, I find that any person who entered the United States as a visitor in 1925 is, of course, here illegally. Since my correspondent is a woman married to a United States citizen and mother of an American-born child, she could probably apply for the suspension of the provision of a recent law under which she is subject to deportation, and her entry into this country can then be legalized.

She should go to the nearest office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service and tell the facts of her case to the United States. If her record is good since then, she will undoubtedly get the benefit of the provisions of the alien registration act of 1940, which provides for a suspension of deportation under similar circumstances.

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Chirologist.

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21-April 19 (ARIES)—You may find this a hard day when you may be called to task for something, but if you will give strict attention to necessities, this can be made a most favorable period.

April 20-May 20 (TAURUS)—Today is an excellent day to decide what you want to do. Make new contacts. Revive old ones. Press your pet projects. Be as cordial and expansive as you can. Make some definite plans for the coming year.

May 21-June 20 (GEMINI)—The entire day is filled with influences that are very strong, inclining you to scatter both your energies and your personality. And in this affair nothing but exhaustion.

June 21-July 22 (CANCER)—The day should prove a most constructive period in every way, favoring financial interests, dealings with professional people, investments and works connected with large concerns.

July 23-August 22 (LEO)—Some difficult cross currents, surrounding activities or vague plans, are likely to feel quite optimistic and therefore will take on obligations or undertake duties that prove to be costly.

August 23-September 22 (VIRGO)—Today is a period when you can accomplish some good results or at least get started toward accomplishing your desire. Most favorable influences predominate throughout the entire day.

September 23-October 22 (LIBRA)—Previous to 9:48 a. m. appears to be the better part of the day when you should set every effort to get conditions set in motion for progress. Between 9:48 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. care should be used to hold poise and do not take on new obligations.

October 23-November 21 (SCORPIO)—Before 12:41 noon does not especially favor making changes. After 12:41 noon, however, plans may meet opposition. Between 12:41 p. m. and 4:15 p. m. favors attending to private matters and business.

November 22-December 21 (SAGITTARIUS)—Should you have important work that you want to materialize quickly this is an excellent day to attempt it, for you are likely to find that others have a more favorable attitude towards you. The best aspects of the day operate before 3 p. m.

December 22-January 19 (CAPRICORN)—An especially favorable day for making friends with older and conservative people, for contacting those who are dependent and steadfast.

January 20-February 18 (AQUARIUS)—Activity which may be well applied to business and industrial interests. Before 4:23 p. m. friendships and associations with older people should prove beneficial, especially if your feelings are of a conservative nature.

February 19-March 20 (PISCES)—New beginnings today are likely to demand much hard work with some remuneration. You may find it difficult to remain cheerful but attending to work already started, much good can be accomplished.

Packages for overseas delivery must not exceed a certain size and weight, so shopping for a present for soldier or sailor must be done within these limitations. Wife Loses Her Dignity By Making an Appeal To the "Other Woman"

By Dixie George.

Dear Dixie:

I am a married woman only 23 years old. I had been married three years and everything went well until about two months ago. Then my husband began to run around about it, of course I was furious and we argued and I left him. He claims he still loves me, but I have learned that he is still going with this woman and she is one who receives no word of respect nor has she a good reputation. Must I let her know that I am not afraid to walk out and leave her to my husband or just let them go. I hate that our home is broken up on account of her. Do you think I should go back to my husband as he wants me to do or not? He wants me to go to another town to live. I realize that she will always be an enemy in our home. He admits that he is wrong and is willing to do as I say. Tell me what is best to do, I have no children and can support myself.

WORRIED WIFE.
The most important thing in your case as I see it is this: Do you love him enough to take him back?

You did not mention this point in your letter and I am just wondering. Another thing, did he violate the affair or is he the victim of a designing woman? It has been said that a man can love his wife and still fall under the spell of another woman. It is very strange to me, but they will do it many times and if a woman wants him back, she must take him with the knowledge that if he strayed once, there is always the possibility that he may wander again.

If your husband admits that he is wrong and you love him enough to give him another chance then do it. I think that a trial separation would be fine. Why not go away for awhile and see if things would not be better? As for the other woman, I would not consider her at all. Tell your husband very frankly that you know all about her and if he wants to skip, then skip. You might add that you will give him a trial period, to see if a probation will help the situation.

BOY SHOULD FINISH SCHOOL.

Dear Dixie:

I am a 15-year-old boy and have four more grades to make before I finish high school. I live out in the country, and there are no high schools around, so I have to go to a town to finish school. I am very anxious to have an education and go to school. But here is where the trouble comes in. I live with my father on a farm, and I am just the right size to help him. He does not mind me going off to school, but he hates to lose his help. Now, could you tell me what to do, stay and help my father or go to school? If I go to school, some day I will be a great man, but I hate to fail father.

I would advise you to go to school and complete your education. It will be to your advantage and you will not be deserting your father, for he will be able to get someone to help him on the farm, and I know that he wishes you to receive an education. If you go to school and complete your education, you will be better able to help him, later in life. There will always be someone to help him on the farm.

Calcium Treatment Aids Asthma Victim

ONE SWALLOW MAKETH NOT SUMMER.

By Dr. William Brady.

My mother, 73 years old (writes her daughter), has been a sufferer for years with attacks of asthma coming closer together. Up to about four months ago the longest relief she had had between attacks was 10 days.

Finally, I sent for your pamphlet and mother began taking calcium and vitamin D as described therein. (Readers may have a copy of the pamphlet on "Asthma" if they ask for it and inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. And, please, don't call your home town "City" or "Local." She started in the midst of an attack and for perhaps two weeks we could see no change. But then the condition cleared up and from that time till now, about four months, she hasn't "wheezed" once. Mother had used all sorts of medicines, sprays, injections and other remedies with no apparent benefit.

Only one who has been afflicted with spasmodic bronchial asthma or who has witnessed a victim suffering from it can realize how miraculous it is to get such relief. We are deeply grateful for your fine advice. (Signed,) Of course, nobody knows whether mother would have experienced the same relief had she never heard of the pamphlet or taking calcium and vitamin D for asthma. Nobody knows. But I'm a credulous fellow and when I receive frequently similar reports of extraordinary benefit experienced by the sufferer from asthma after he or she has taken calcium and vitamin D for a reasonable time, I can't help thinking the treatment is valuable at least in a fair number of cases. On the other hand, I am virtually certain it can do no harm in any case, and so I recommend it indiscriminately to asthma sufferers. I recommend it, not as a remedy which can give any immediate relief, but as a prophylactic or preventive, a corrective of the underlying or constitutional condition which renders the individual susceptible to or predisposed to spasmodic asthma.

Physiological function of calcium in the body is to control or regulate excitability of nerve fibres and nerve centers and lessen neuro-muscular irritability and the permeability of capillary channels. And according to nutrition investigators calcium shortage is more common than any other nutritional deficiency in America. Finally, an adequate daily intake of vitamin D is essential for assimilation and utilization of calcium.

How To Get Your Exercise In the Minimum of Time

By Ida Jean Kain.

This is the fifth in a series of eighteen articles by Ida Jean Kain in which she offers a physical fitness program for women during wartime. Slimming the waistline is the theme of today's article by Miss Kain.

In busy times like these you can't afford to waste time exercising. You know that—and you can't help but stop and think there might be a technique that cuts down your exercise time. There is!

It's not how much exercise you take, but how you take it. If you will just give exercise the right twist, you can get beautiful results.

Suppleness is a direct test of fitness, so let's begin with the waistline. I'll say here and now that you are an exception if you do not need suppling exercises. The combination of a stretching, twisting and bending will do it for you, but there is a technique to every single movement.

When you stretch concentrate the up-pulls through the midsection, in that expanse between ribs and hips.

Keep your shoulders down and relaxed, but stretch between ribs and hips until you actually feel taller and slimmer.

Then, when you twist around to this side, hold your hips squarely to front. Stand with feet 18 or so inches apart, and parallel, and keep hips front while twisting at your waist.

Finally, bend at your waist—but bend while continuing to stretch up. You're not just trying to reach over and touch fingers to the floor. Anyone can do that. What you want to do is bend over and touch the floor with the right twist and upstretch.

Stand erect with arms upstretched and most of the stretch between ribs and hips. Twist to side. Now, bend. Keep your shoulders and hips in line and make those midriff muscles give. Then stand erect, stretch up again, and bend to the other side. The main point in slimming your waist is to tug at the waist muscles. In bending, keep the stomach muscles pulled up, the hips under.

You put the same principle to work for you by stretching up through the midriff and circling the trunk down, around and up. Go away over to one side—almost as if you meant to bend over—and then bend forward while continuing to pull up with those stomach muscles and keeping your hips under you, not letting them jut out. This is not easy to do at first, but as you catch on to it you will see why it's so effective. It may not sound new to you, but

MRS. LOUIE E. MEWBORN.

Miss Hollingsworth Wed To Louie Ernest Mewborn

Mr. and Mrs. James Hope Hollingsworth announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Florence Evelyn Hollingsworth, to Louie Ernest Mewborn. The ceremony was solemnized last Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents on Virginia avenue, in the presence of the immediate family and intimate friends.

Dr. Lester Rumble read the marriage vows, using the impressive ring ceremony.

The bride's maid of honor and only attendant was Miss Gladys

Wilson, who wore a brown crepe model with matching accessories. Her flowers were a shoulder spray of pink roses.

The lovely bride was given in marriage by her father. She was groomed in an olive green crepe suit worn with brown accessories. A spray of yellow roses and tulle completed her costume.

The bride and groom are on their wedding trip to the mountains. After September 15 they will reside at home, 949 Highland View, N. E.

Miss Hubbard and Mr. Travis Will Be Married Saturday

Plans for the marriage of Miss Helen Margaret Hubbard and Cecil Howell Travis, now of Camp Wheeler, are announced today. The ceremony takes place tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Peachtree Road Methodist church.

The pastor, Dr. N. C. McPherson Jr., will officiate and a musical program will be presented by Mrs. C. S. Connell and Mrs. George Latham.

Serving as ushers will be Thomas McPherson, Hoyt McPherson, Dan Edwards and Jack Bunn. Sergeant Robert Wilson will be the best man.

Miss Maurine McDougall, cousin of the bride-elect, will be the maid of honor, and Miss Marion Williamson will be the bridesmaid.

The bride-elect, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Joseph Hubbard, will be given in marriage by her father. After the ceremony, the bride's parents will entertain at a reception at their home on Cheshire Bridge road.

Among out-of-town guests who will attend the marriage are Mr. and Mrs. Rembert P. Travis, of Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. E. D. Rudisill, of Milledgeville, Ga.; Miss Jacqueline McPherson, of Chicago, Ill.; Dr. and Mrs. B. C. McPherson and family, of Macon; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Travis, Mr. and Mrs. L. Travis, of Nashville, Tenn., and others.

Daniell Reunion.

Arrangements are being made for the annual reunion of the Daniell family, which will be held in the Mars Hill Baptist church, Oconee county on September 13.

These of the name and all allied families are invited to attend. The program will be of a patriotic nature, and those present will be interested in hearing of any incident relative to the patriotism of ancestors or relatives in the wars in which the United States has been engaged.

Dinner will be served on the grounds.

Eddie Prokop's Passes Highlight of Jacket Drill

Soph Ace Battles Sheldon for No. 1 Tailback Spot; Jack Helms Back at Tackle Post.

By JOHN MARTIN.

Eddie Prokop, the curly-headed blond from Ohio, looks more like a guard than he does a back. And yesterday he looked more like a passer than anybody to show at Tech since Johnny Bosch stormed in from G. M. A.

Prokop was not a Bosch. No, he was as good as the old master, Bobby Dodd. But he was pitching a winning brand of ball into the arms of receivers throughout an extra long passing session at Rose Bowl field.

The sophomore tailback, who at this time ranks as understudy to Bobby Sheldon, appears to have the requisites of a star passer. In yesterday's workout he was hitting ends and backs with a high average, with short and long throws. Above all else, he showed the timing that is so vital to a successful aerial game, faking with the deception required in the jacket attack.

Prokop gets the ball away in the smooth motion of a veteran baseball pitcher. There is nothing jerky or hasty about his delivery. And he measures his lead with the style of his receiver.

The Ohio boy already is regarded as a needed tank on the move when he puts the ball under his arm. So don't be surprised to see him give Sheldon a warm race for the No. 1 tailback spot before the coming season is over.

The Jackets continued routine drilling yesterday, with linemen concentrating on blocking and backs and ends working through the air. Jack Helms, who looked convincing as a pass receiver Wednesday, was back at tackle, keeping his ample hands in on these duties, and thus strengthening the belief that he will perform in a dual role.

The Jackets have over two more weeks to prepare for their opener with Auburn September 26.

Lamar Davis' Receiving Reminiscent of '41 Form

Converted End Looks Good at Former Backfield Post; Butts To Shorten Drills.

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 10.—Georgia's Bulldogs, streamlined around the middle after ten years of the toughest practice they have ever gone through, are due for lighter drills until the Kentucky game on September 19.

Coach Wallace Butts said after a long offensive scrimmage today he planned to "let up" on his charges because he doesn't want to take a chance on their legs not "bouncing back" into perfect shape. "We'll do rough work every day from now on, but it won't be as long as usual," Coach Butts declared. "The fat's about all gone and that's what we've been trying to do. I believe now that most of the boys will be in playing condition as soon as their legs get ready."

Particularly impressive this afternoon was the running of Lamar Davis, who's getting back into the groove at wingback after a tenure at end. Lamar looked his old self catching passes, and he ran several reverses better than ever in his life, but it's the pass catching where he really stands out, and Georgia is again counting on the Brunswick senior to be one of its finest scoring threats. Davis was second in the conference last year in total points scored, setting a record for the number of touchdown passes caught.

Andy Dudish, reverse wingback, worked out in light togs this afternoon for the first time in more than a week.

Joe Polak is the only other member of the squad on the sidelines with injuries. Polak is still out due to a cracked rib.

Dupont Firm Is Indicted in Plastics Case

Charged With Restraining Output and Sales of Two Products.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 10.—(AP) The government disclosed today indictments charging the giant E. I. du Pont de Nemours Company and others with conspiracy to restrain production and sales of two plastics, one of them vital in the manufacture of warplanes.

They were the second and third anti-trust indictments returned here against the giant chemical firm and, like the first, which involved dyestuffs, they were put on the shelf for trial after the war is over.

Accused in True Bill.
The Du Pont Company, which has headquarters in Wilmington, Del.; Rohm & Haas Company, of Bristol, Pa., and eight officials of the two firms were accused in one true bill of entering a combine to restrict production, fix prices and divide the world's markets for acrylic products.

These include the transparent nose of American bombing planes, aerial gun turrets and cockpit hoods.

The second indictment announced today named Du Pont, Rohm & Haas, the L. D. Caulk Company, of Milford, Del.; the Kerr Dental Manufacturing Company, Detroit; Vernon-Benshoff Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., and 12 of their executives on a charge of conspiracy to monopolize the distribution and sale of methyl methacrylate, a new plastic from which the government said 90 per cent of all dental plates are now made.

The indictment alleged that when the material was sold for industrial use the price was 85 cents a pound, but when it was sold for dentures the price jumped to $45. The material sold for commercial molding had added ingredients so it could not be used to make dental plates, the government said.

Plastics' Uses Vary.
Both plastics have varied uses besides the aviation and dental purposes.

The indictment said Rohm & Haas, G. M. B. H., of Germany, was a partner in the acrylic conspiracy, but it did not make the corporation a defendant. The Justice Department in Washington

City Park Ponies May Be 'Drafted'

The war affects ponies and will convert them from saddle horses to draft animals, George I. Simons believes.

Simons announced yesterday sale of 46 ponies used during the summer months on track at Piedmont and Grant parks will begin today, and predict because of gasoline and tire shortages, they probably will be used seriously as transport instead of being kept for riding only.

Usually doting parents purchase the animals for children, but Simons believes many of them will be hitched to carts or wagons and used for marketing and other purposes as a supplement to family automobiles.

said the cartel also included the giant German dye trust, I. G. Farben-Industrie, and Imperial Chemical, Ltd., of London.

Rohm & Haas issued a statement asserting "without these agreements Rohm & Haas would not today be manufacturing plexiglas, the transparent plastic sheet which is now so vital to our aircraft program."

As proof of its importance the statement cited that the trial of the cases had been shelved at the request of the War and Navy Departments. Both services had commended Rohm & Haas for expanding its production, it said.

Hitler Increasing Demands for Fleet

LONDON, Sept. 10.—(AP)—The British Press Association said today that Adolf Hitler has renewed his demands for control of the French fleet since the Allied raid at Dieppe in order to bolster his European coastal defenses.

The Press Association said some reports claim that Hitler renewed his demands in a personal message to Marshal Petain, and that the Fuehrer was so anxious to press his arguments he was "prepared to see Petain personally."

The Nazis were also said to be putting pressure on Vichy anew to supply Marshal Erwin Rommel in North Africa with food for his troops from his stores in the French colonies.

In return, the Press Association said, Hitler was reported to have offered to release more French prisoners of war and transfer control of Bordeaux on the south Atlantic coast to Vichy.

'Bugs' Baer Says:

Here's one thing to remember about the screwballs and the crackpots. No matter how silly a proposition sounds it requires only 36 states to ratify.

I've got a tax plan to end the other tax plans. First, I would sew all the people's pockets tighter than a cowardly clam.

That would make the folks carry their money in their mouths.

After that I would lead them to the village hoss trough and read them Rudy Paul's spending tax plan.

That would make them laugh up all their money in the hoss trough. Simple, isn't it? Or am I?

Georgian Gets Navy Cross for Valor on Ship

Robert L. Metts, of Willacoochee, Cited for Bravery.

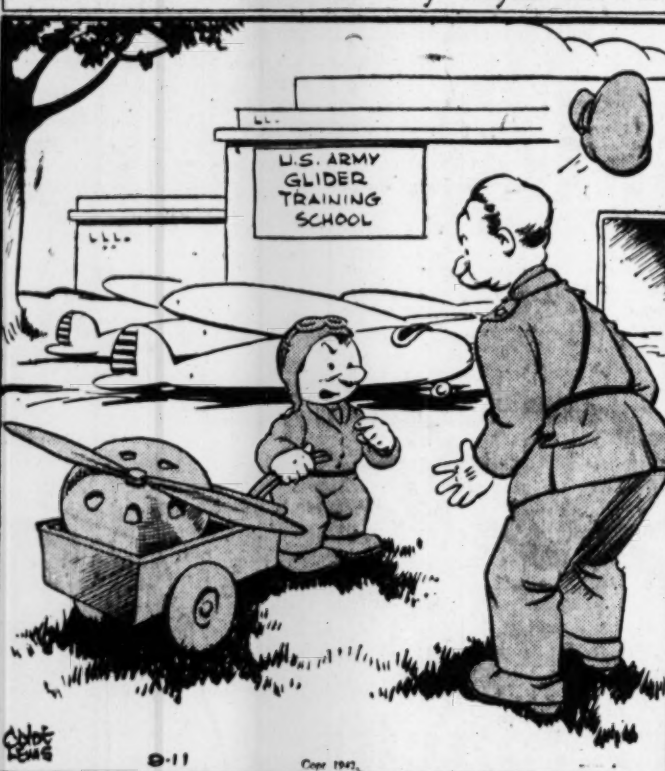

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Sept. 10.—(AP) Robert L. Metts, 23, of Willacoochee, Ga., a civilian, received the Navy Cross for his valor as a messenger aboard the Lexington during the height of Japanese action against that aircraft carrier in the Coral sea battle.

Metts, the citation said, remained at his post even after an explosion had killed or wounded nearly all of the men at the station.

"He donned a gas mask and attempted to report casualty to the bridge by phone," the citation continued, "with total disregard for personal safety he continued his efforts to establish communication until he collapsed at his post and was subsequently rescued in a state of unconsciousness."

The presentation was made by Captain William Chambers, commanding officer of the Naval hospital where Metts is recovering. Metts is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Metts, of Willacoochee.

The Army and Navy in Georgia

When the U. S. S. Wakefield burned last week, Bill Stewart, of Atlanta, who was stationed aboard, had an added grievance besides the burning of all his belongings. An electrician, third class, he helped reconstruct it from the Brooklyn Navy Yard yesterday, and told her we dragged the old hull in, Mama, I lost my home and all my clothes, but I'm okay."

Stewart enlisted in the coast guard three years ago, on his 18th birthday, and was stationed on the Champlain until it was given to Britain. His parents, and Mrs. R. B. Stewart, live at 132 Sylvan drive.

Robert Lloyd Rees, of 3469 Piedmont road, was recently commissioned a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps Reserve and awarded the wings of the Marine Air Force upon his graduation last week at the Marine Barracks, Naval Air Station, Jacksonville, Fla.

Rees went through his elimination flight training at the Naval Aviation Base in Jacksonville, Fla. Son of Mrs. Harry L. Rees, formerly of Atlanta, Lieutenant Rees graduated from North Fulton High school and attended Emory University prior to his enlistment in the Marines.

Hiram J. Honea, in pre-flight school. Formerly secretary to Mayor Roy McCarver, who resigned to join the armed forces, Aviation Cadet Hiram James Honea, of 1273 Stillwood drive, is now enrolled in the pre-flight school at Maxwell Field, Alabama.

Cadet Honea is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joel A. Honea, and attended Marsh Business College and the University of Georgia Evening College, both in Atlanta.

THINGS TO KNOW ABOUT THE NAVY. Things we bet you never knew—that a modern battleship, set upright, would top the tallest skyscraper in New York.

—that the term "the smoke lamp is lit" means sailors on shipboard are permitted to smoke. This bit of Navy slang dates back to the pre-match days when an oil lamp was lit to provide a flame for pipes and cigars. Though the smoking lamp exists today in only a figurative sense, it is "out" when taking on oil or ammunition.

—that a U. S. Navy battleship cook bakes 260 pies a day.

NEW DEVICE AIDS SKI TROOPERS IN CLIMBING. Borrowing a "non-skid" feature that nature gave the seal to keep him from slipping on the ice when he tries to make his escape from a hungry Polar bear, the Quarter-master Corps has developed a new device that helps ski troops in climbing, according to headquarters of the Fourth Service Command here.

M. WALLACE MATTISON MADE LIEUTENANT

M. Wallace Mattison, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Mattison, of 603 Clairmont avenue, Decatur, graduated from the bombardier school at Victorville, Cal., on August 15, and was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army Air Forces in January, 1942. Lieutenant Mattison is receiving training at Maxwell Field, Ala., and Santa Ana, Cal. M. W. Mattison, of 640 Grand street, Decatur, was employed by the Standard Oil Company.

ATLANTIAN CHOSEN FOR FLIGHT TRAINING

Walter Armistead, of Atlanta, was among the 400 aviation cadets chosen out of a class of 3,500 to go straight from their pre-flight training at Kelly Field, Texas, into an instructor's course that will make them second lieutenants in five weeks. Armistead, the son of Mr. John Armistead, of 2765 North Hills drive, is in the Signal Corps in December, 1941, and only transferred to the Air Corps a month ago. He was in his second year at Georgia Tech when he enlisted. While in the Signal Corps, Armistead was stationed at MacDill Field, Tampa, Fla.

A CENSOR FOUND WITH SENSE OF HUMOR

A telephone operator at Fort Knox, Ky., has discovered a modern phenomenon—a censor with a sense of humor. Recently she received a letter from her sweetheart, stationed overseas, which bore the enlightening message: "Dear Martha, Love, Jerry." To this was added the censor's postscript: "Your boy-friend loves you, but he talks too much."

GEORGIANS ARRIVE AT CAMP CROFT

Thirteen newly inducted soldiers from Georgia have recently arrived at Camp Croft, S. C., one of the nation's four infantry replacement training centers, to undergo a period of basic army military training. They are: William B. Middleton, of Colquitt; Willie P. Corley, of Porterdale; John F. Gaylor, of Chatsworth; Milton Miller, of Rochelle; James A. Moore Jr., of Pitts; Meeks W. Harris, of Gainesville; Edward E. Butler, of Pembroke; William B. Corporal Frank A. Gheesling, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Carlton Gheesling, of 1039 Bellevue drive, was promoted to sergeant in the Army Air Forces at Kearns Field, Utah.

Stocks Leading Issues Drift Lower

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—(AP)—The stock market continued to find the going a bit rough today, and leading issues drifted fractions to a point or so lower.

There never was any real pressure on the list, but hesitancy ruled from the start. Dealings were relatively light throughout, although volume was aided by liveliness of low-priced issues most of which were unchanged. While recoveries were noted here and there at the close, declines were well in the majority.

Some sections of the bond market swung into higher levels with vigor today, placing many rails in the high positions along with selected utilities and specialties. United States governments were steady.

Opening of subscription books on the new $3,000,000 treasury offering, by far the largest governmental financing undertaking since the Liberty loan drives of the first world war, found the government bond market in a state of equanimity.

In the curb small setbacks were suffered by Glen Alden Coal, American Cyanamid, Lake Shore, and Sherwin Williams.

One-Egg Cakes

With egg prices high the need for one-egg cake recipes looms large in most households. These recipes are offered for your "Inexpensive Cakes" file. The first is a standard recipe for Feather Cake, light and delicate in texture, that may be varied in many ways, as shown below.

Syrup or honey may be substituted for 1-2 of the sugar called for in these recipes. However, if honey is used a bit of soda must be substituted for part of the baking powder, and when substituting honey or syrup decrease the liquid slightly. In the date-nut cake you need make no alteration except to substitute 1-2 cup syrup for 1-2 cup of the sugar called for, and decrease the water poured over the dates about 3 tablespoons.

Feather Cake.

Measure 1 cup and 1 tablespoon of all-purpose flour, sift once, mix with 1-4 teaspoon salt and 2 teaspoons baking powder and sift again, then mix with 1-2 cup sugar. Measure 1-3 cup melted butter or margarine in a measuring cup, add 1 unbeaten egg and fill the cup to the top with milk. Add this to the flour mixture, stirring to mix and then beating hard for a minute. Flavor with 1 teaspoon vanilla and pour into a greased 7-inch baking pan. Bake in a moderate oven for 20 to 25 minutes or until well risen, golden brown and shrunken from the sides of the pan. Remove from the oven, cool and ice as desired.

Variations: Use orange or pineapple juice instead of milk and add 1-4 teaspoon baking soda to the flour mixture. Use cold, strong coffee instead of milk and add 1-4 cup finely chopped walnuts to the cake batter. Omit the extra tablespoon of flour and add 3 tablespoons cocoa to the cup of flour to make a chocolate flavored cake.

Bake any of the above mixtures in small muffin or patty cake pans instead of in a square pan. You might use some for a fancy dessert by cutting a slice from the tops, scooping out part of the center and filling with whipped cream or a thick custard sauce plain or mixed with fruit.

Date-Nut Cake is another delicious one-egg cake. Cut pitted dates in thin slices to make 1 cupful measured after slicing. Cover with 1-2 cups boiling water and let stand until cold. Meanwhile cream 1-3 cup shortening and gradually work in 1 cup granulated sugar. When well blended add 1 egg and beat to a smooth cream, then add the dates and the water. Sift 2 1-4 cups sifted cake flour with 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon baking powder and 1-4 teaspoon salt. Stir into the liquid mixture, add 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind and 1 cup chopped nutmeats—any kind you wish. Pour into a greased and floured loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven for 40 minutes or until firm to the touch and golden brown. Cool and spread with a simple frosting and garnish with candied

Cook's Notebook

Honey warmed with a clove or two poured over a fruit cup gives it a delightful and delicate flavor.

Boil new potatoes in their jackets to preserve every bit of goodness. Peel quickly when just tender. Serve with a sauce of melted butter, which is allowed to brown slightly. Stir into the butter 1 to 2 teaspoons lemon juice or vinegar. Substitute a bit of chopped capers for the usual minced parsley.

When a roast of lamb or veal is partly done, baste with one-half cup hot apricot nectar. For added flavor, arrange cooked or canned apricot halves on top of the meat about 30 minutes before removing from oven.

Hard rolls, split, buttered and toasted are excellent with summer meals. They help cool kitchens, offer warm hospitality.

Soup Pot Aids Thrift

In these days of an ever-increasing need for thrift and economy it would be well to revive the old-fashioned soup pot. In pioneer days it sat on the back of every kitchen range, receiving odds and ends of vegetables and meat. And several times a week a thick and hearty soup, the mainstay of the meal, appeared from its nondescript collection.

The French, notable for being able to make a delicious meal "out of nothing," are famous for their soup pots. Someone has said of them, "On every French stove the soup pot simmers perpetually." Certainly a bowlful of thick soup, served with a crisp salad and buttered dark bread makes as good and inexpensive a meal as can be found. Today, I'm offering some recipes for good soups, but first let me give you Mrs. Carl Lewis' own favorite recipe for genuine French onion soup. Mrs. Lewis is French, and with her family this soup is a great favorite. Here's her recipe:

Soupe a l'Oignon.

6 small onions.
1 medium potato.
1 cup grated parmesan or sharp American cheese.
2 quarts water.
Butter or bacon drippings.

Saute the onions, sliced, in the butter or bacon fat. Boil the potato in the water, put potato through sieve, and return it to the water. Add sauted onions to potato-water mixture, add salt and pepper to taste and simmer 30 to 40 minutes. Serve over toast squares and sprinkle each serving liberally with cheese.

French onion soup is correctly served in individual earthenware bowls or an earthenware tureen. These and other fancier tureens are quite fashionable for the table nowadays and serve the double purpose of providing something large enough to hold many servings and of keeping the soup hot. Now for other hearty soups:

Thick Vegetable Soup: Buy a beef soup bone cut from the shank, and weighing about 2 pounds—there should be about equal parts of bone and meat. Have the bone well cracked. Wash the meat and bone, drain and put in the soup kettle with cold water to completely cover it—say 3 quarts. Add 1 tablespoon salt, heat slowly to the boiling point and boil slowly for 1 1-2 hours. Add 2 cups canned tomatoes, 2 cups canned or fresh lima beans, 1 cup finely diced carrots, 1-2 cup sliced onions, 1 white turnip cut in dice, 1-2 cup rice, 1 cup sliced celery, 2 cups canned corn, 1-2 green pepper cut in shreds and 2 cups shredded cabbage. Cover and boil gently for another hour. Add pepper to season, more salt if necessary and 1-2 cup evaporated milk. Serve in large soup plates.

Spanish Bean and Cabbage Soup: Soak 1-2 pound white beans overnight in cold water to cover. In the morning drain, put in a soup kettle and add 3 quarts of cold water and 1 large onion cut in slices. Cut 1-4 pound fat bacon in cubes and fry until just beginning to brown, then add to the beans. Boil gently for 1 1-2 hours, then add a small head of cabbage cut in thin slices, 2 teaspoons salt (or more if necessary), 2 canned pimientos cut in small dice, 1-2 bayleaf, 2 cups tomato pulp, and 2 tablespoons rice. Cover and boil gently for another hour or until the soup is thick and savory, and the beans very soft. Serve in large soup plates or bowls with crusty bread. Small cubes of bread fried until crisp in the bacon fat may be added to the soup as it is served and are a good addition.

Leek and Potato Soup: Trim two bunches of leeks (or green onions), wash thoroughly, then cut crosswise in slices one-fourth-inch thick. Peel and dice potatoes to make 4 cupsful. Heat 3 tablespoons bacon grease in a soup kettle, add the leeks and potatoes and stir for 5 minutes over a moderate fire. Then add 2 quarts hot water, 1 tablespoon salt, the tip end of a bayleaf and 1-8 teaspoon pepper. Cover and boil gently for an hour or until the vegetables are very tender and beginning to break up. Add 1 quart milk and stir in 3 tablespoons flour mixed with a little cold water. Stir until boiling and serve in bowls or large soup plates with plenty of crusty toasted croutons.

Russian Cabbage Soup.
1 1-2 pounds flank steak
10 cups water
1 tablespoon salt, pepper
1 No. 1 can tomatoes or 2 1-2 cups chopped fresh tomatoes
1 large onion
1-2 clove garlic, cut fine
1 medium head cabbage
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon vinegar or lemon juice
1 bay leaf

Place meat and water in a large saucepan or soup kettle. Add salt, pepper, tomatoes, onion, garlic and bayleaf. Simmer gently 1 1-2 hours. Shred cabbage coarsely and add with sugar, vinegar and more salt, if necessary, and simmer another 1 1-2 hours. Serve hot and if desired add a heaping tablespoon sour cream to each serving. Serves 4 to 6.

This is the first "R" month and perhaps you'll be eager to have oysters again, so here's a good flavored oyster soup.

Tomato-Oyster Soup.

4 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 tablespoon onion, grated or finely chopped
1 pint oysters and oyster liquor
1 1-2 teaspoons salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
3 cups milk, scalded
3-4 cup condensed tomato soup, heated

Cook the onions in the butter. Pick over the oysters, removing bits of shell, then drain and reserve liquor. Add the oysters to the onion and butter with the salt and pepper. Cook until the oysters are plump and the edges begin to curl. Next add the hot milk and oyster liquor, and heat to the boiling point, but do not boil. Then add the hot condensed tomato soup. Mix and serve at once with crackers. Serves 4 to 6.

Mrs. Carl Lewis has a fine, old French cookbook, and she is widely known for her excellent French cooking. One of her specialties is French Onion Soup, the recipe for which she graciously gave me to print today. Recipe in "Soup" column.

Apples Are Victory Food Special

Fresh apples have been designated the Victory Food Special for September. Supplies of apples are plentiful and the prices are moderate. Vitally important is the fact that a wide use of the Victory Food Specials during the periods specified for them releases other foods and transportation facilities for lend-lease and other war requirements.

Good baked apples are delicious and very nutritious, and you'll hear nothing but praise from the family for these apple dishes which contribute to good health and at the same time help toward winning the war.

Honey-Baked Apples. Wash, core and peel apples part way down. (Leave a little core at bottom for a plug). Fill cavity with honey and put half a cup honey mixed with 1-4 cup water around the apples. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes or until apples are soft. Top some with raisins, some with dates or nuts.

Apple Sauce Fruit Cookies.

1 cup butter, margarine or shortening
1 cup dark molasses
3 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder.
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon cloves
3 eggs
1 teaspoon mace
1-4 teaspoon nutmeg
1-4 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 cup raisins
1 cup chopped dates
1 cup chopped nut meats
1 cup apple sauce

Cream butter, add molasses, un-beaten eggs and about 2 tablespoons flour. Beat thoroughly. Add apple sauce, fruit dredged in a little additional flour and nuts. Add remaining flour and spices, sifted together, with enough milk to make batter soft enough to drop from spoon. Drop on greased baking sheet and bake 13 minutes at 375 degrees. These cookies pack and keep well. Take note if you make cookies for a soldier.

New Salads Revive Late-Summer Meals

All of us have a tendency to get into a rut with foods, serving the same dishes over and over again with never a change. And while we derive a certain comfort from familiar things, a change in foods, little variations, pleasant new ideas introduced here and there make mealtime something to look forward to.

There is an almost endless variety possible in salads, particularly, and since almost every lunch and dinner menu needs a salad I'm offering salad ideas here, to see you through the summer days that drag into September.

This is a man-sized salad for luncheon or dinner. Stuff medium-sized peeled tomatoes with mild yellow cheese, grated and mixed to a paste with a little real mayonnaise. Add chopped celery, watercress and finely minced cucumbers. Blend in a little chives or onions, and a little chopped ripe olives. Fill tomatoes and spread mixture over them thickly. Serve on pretty grape leaves. Pass toasted crackers.

Avocado Luncheon Salad.

3 small avocados, peeled, cut lengthwise
3 large tomatoes
3 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
2 cups cooked ham, diced
1-3 cup celery, sliced
Lettuce or other salad greens
French dressing

Line salad bowl with salad

Avocado Half-Shells With Crabmeat.

2 avocados
Lemon juice
Salt
1 cup prepared crabmeat
Salad greens

Cut avocados in halves lengthwise and remove seed. Sprinkle with salt and lemon juice. Fill centers with crabmeat moistened with real mayonnaise and place on crisp greens. Serve with more mayonnaise.

Cheese Salad Mold.

2 tablespoons plain gelatin
1-4 cup cold water
1 cup condensed tomato soup, boiling hot
1-2 cup boiling water
1 cup cottage cheese
1-3 cup chopped stuffed olives
1-2 cup real mayonnaise
1-2 cup diced celery
1-4 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon chopped parsley

Soak gelatin in cold water, and dissolve in hot soup, but do not boil; add hot water. Cool until mixture begins to thicken, then fold in remaining ingredients. Pour into ring mold and chill until firm. Unmold on salad greens, and fill center with mayonnaise.

Stretching the Food Budget

A food budget can be a bane or a blessing, depending upon the way it is planned. All of us have a food budget, whether a hard fast or flexible one, and the following hints are given to help your budget serve you as well as it should:

1. Inspect the contents of the refrigerator each morning before going to market, to determine what alterations in the day's menus are necessary in order to make use of the left-overs.

2. Inspect the pantry and supply shelves once a week to see which of the basic foods need replacing. Buying basic foods in quantity usually is a saving, and economical meal planning is easier with an adequate supply of staples on hand. If your family is small, you and a neighbor can buy staples together and share in the savings, also in the ever increasing problem of getting the heavier supplies home. Closer co-operation even in little things will help to win the war.

3. In cooking for two or three persons divide recipes which serve six in half.

4. Remember cereals hold a high place in the rank of food bargains. Plan economical meals to include a wider use of cereals and cereal products. Examples: Use hominy croquettes, cornmeal baked with cheese, hot, cereals with dried fruits for breakfast, cereal pancakes, muffins.

5. Make a file of one-egg cake recipes, sugar-saving desserts, salads that use bits of left-over vegetables, and inexpensive meat and meat substitute dishes. Consult this file in planning the week's menus.

6. Learn to make at least three appetizing dishes using liver, and dark molasses. (These to supplement the iron intake.)

7. Select fruits and vegetables carefully and as a rule buy medium-sized ones. Remember that bruised or wilted vegetables are not a bargain at any price. They have lost some of their vitamins before you take them home.

Toccoa to Hollywood
Road Is Being Paved
Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
TOCCOA, Ga., Sept. 10.—Much progress is being made here on paving Route 17, which runs from Toccoa to Hollywood, through the picturesque Blue Ridge mountains. According to Claude Mathews, who is in charge of the work, the project, it is thought, will be completed by November 1, barring bad weather. About 26 trucks are now on the job and approximately 100 men. It is estimated that over 1,000 carloads of sand and gravel will be used in the construction of the roadway. Seven-inch uniform concrete will be used on the highway. A little War Ad in The Constitution does many a BIG job.

Georgia's Defense Training Praised By State Group

By AL SHARP.

More than 130,000 Civilian Defense workers have been trained or are in training for specialized jobs throughout the state, and virtually every city and town in Georgia is prepared for what might come, the State Citizens' Defense Committee announced yesterday following a conference here to discuss mobilization plans.

Colonel Richard C. Job, of the committee, said 234,472 civilians had registered in the state for defense training and pointed to "the very satisfactory training program which has prepared more than half of them—130,924—in nine months."

The totals include those who are in the defense corps—auxiliary policemen, fire watchers, air raid wardens, etc., as well as those in the service corps, which covers such classifications as child care, housing, nutrition and other subjects.

In the defense corps, 34,477 have been trained and 21,103 are in training; in the service corps, 69,457 trained and 5,887 in training.

The figures, Colonel Job pointed out, do not include all 159 Georgia counties, and there probably are thousands that could be added when the other 65 counties complete their tallies and forward them to headquarters.

Sixty-one representatives from all parts of Georgia attended the conference yesterday. Committee Chairman Robert Troutman outlined a broad mobilization program, pointing out that more attention would be given this phase.

32 Hold Blackouts.
Civilian mobilization includes salvage, child care, nutrition, health and hospitals, war bonds and stamps, family security services, consumer programs, housing, recreation and youth group work, education, libraries, information, neighborhood leaders and other war-time services.

"The training in specialized lines must go on continuously," Colonel Job said. "Blackouts and whiteouts must be held to coordinate the persons in their particular jobs. Thirty-two cities in the state have had blackouts."

Figures on those trained or training for specialized jobs, with their duties, give a good picture of just how far Georgia has gone in getting ready for any civilian defense emergency, Colonel Job said. The figures:

Defense corps: Staff, 843 trained, 227 in training; air-raid wardens, 12,763 trained, 8,205 training; auxiliary firemen, 3,504 trained, 1,293 training; auxiliary police, 4,142 trained, 2,870 training; decontamination, 286 trained, 201 training; demolition and clearance, 564 trained, 517 training; drivers, 905 trained, 500 training; emergency food and housing, 1,226 trained, 1,123 training; emergency medical, 3,094 trained, 1,479 training; fire watchers, 2,344 trained, 2,126 training; messengers, 1,395 trained, 1,058 training; nurse's aides, 865 trained, 504 training; rescue squads, 552 trained, 324 training; road repairs, 1,473 trained, 615 training; utilities repair, 521 trained, 61 training.

Service Corps Trainees.
Service corps: Child care, 4,441 trained, 146 training; consumer, 465 trained, 1,108 training; family security, 859 trained, 811 training; health and hospitals, 1,976 trained, 541 training; housing, 134 trained, 34 training; information, 137 trained, 84 training; libraries, 110 trained, 37 training; block leaders, 22 trained, 12 training; nutrition, 5,180 trained, 608 training; recreation and youth group work, 5,845 trained, 1,347 training.

FBI Identifies Two Guns in Miami Slayings

Officials Say Pistols Were Used in Murder of 4 Miamians.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 10. (P)—Detective Captain E. W. Melchen, of the Miami police department, said here today that the two pistols taken from Vincent Christy, 35-year-old Californian, upon his arrest here "have been positively identified by the FBI as the guns used" in the slaying of four Miamians July 17.

Melchen said that Christy refused to make any statement when confronted with this evidence. Christy has maintained that he remembers nothing that happened in the past five months, police reported.

A .38 caliber revolver and a .22 automatic were found in Christy's possession when Jacksonville police nabbed him in the automobile of a local man who had just been held up and robbed in his home.

Ray Mills, chief investigator for the state attorney's office in Miami, took the guns to Washington so that the FBI could compare the test bullets fired from them with bullets found at the scene of the Miami slayings, which had been sent to Washington previously.

Melchen said that he would wait in Jacksonville for the receipt of further information, whose nature he would not disclose, before taking Christy back to Miami. He said he expected to leave Friday night or Saturday morning, however.

Melchen, Mills and Sergeant John L. Deas hurried from Miami Wednesday when Detective Inspector E. L. Acosta, of the Jacksonville police, notified them that his men had arrested a man whose description "fitted to a T" that given by witnesses who saw the slayer leave the scene of the killings.

Irving Leopold, 37; his wife, Esther, and her six-year-old son by a former marriage were shot to death early on the night of July 17 in the apartment over a market operated by Leopold.

The gunman forced Ralph J. Morin Jr., 19, to drive him away, then killed the youth and left his body in a vacant lot about a mile distant. The automobile was found wrecked several blocks from Morin's body.

Jacksonville police said that Christy has admitted holding up Ernie Strauss here and has been charged with highway robbery in that case.

Agnes Scott Professor Named Vanderbilt Dean

Dr. Philip G. Davidson Jr., head of the history department of Agnes Scott College, has been appointed dean of the senior college and graduate school of Vanderbilt University, O. C. Carmichael, chancellor, announced yesterday.

Succeeding Dr. John E. Pomfret, who recently accepted the presidency of William and Mary College, will assume his duties Tuesday.

Enlisted Reserves in College To Be Called on Reaching 20

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10. (P)—Because of the "exigencies of war," Secretary Stimson announced today the War Department's intention to call to active military duty all college student members of the Army enlisted reserve as they reach the draft age.

Students in more than 1,000 colleges and universities have joined the reserves under an arrangement whereby they would continue their studies, although they were subject to call if needed.

"It is now expected that by the end of the college term or semester beginning in September those student members of the reserve who have reached selective service age will all or for the most part be called to active duty," the war secretary said in a statement.

"Those reaching that age during subsequent terms will similarly be called."

The new policy, officials said, applies also to students who have joined the Army Air Force Reserve. The Navy, however, reported no change in its announced intention to permit its student reservists to continue their studies as long as possible.

The present minimum draft age is 20 but the War Department has urged that it be lowered to 18.

Noting that "we are running short of Army manpower now," Stimson also announced that several thousand members of the regular Army Reserve, enlisted Reserve Corps, and the National Guard, who have been deferred thus far because of dependency, would be recalled to active duty in October and November.

All are former servicemen. Their recall was made feasible, it was explained, by the cash allotments to dependents voted by congress and by the raise in pay given men in the armed services. Re-

Writes Own Habeas Corpus, Gets Hearing

Brantley Carson, languishing in Fulton Tower since March 14, contempt of court for failing to pay alimony, got tired of it the other day and asked the jailer for pen and paper. With it he wrote out a writ of habeas corpus, alleging that Sheriff J. M. Mount was detaining him illegally.

He sent the writ to Judge Hugh M. Dorsey, of superior court, who ordered the sheriff to produce Carson in court yesterday. After hearing Carson's plea, Judge Dorsey referred him to the Domestic Relations Court, which had originally committed him to jail for contempt.

1st Woman Air Squad To Ferry Army Planes

Feminine Pilots To Be Civil Service Employees, Not Military.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10. (P)—The first military squadron of women pilots in the United States was announced today when the Air Transport Command set up an experimental organization to ferry small Army planes within the country.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Nancy Harkness Love, 28, of Boston, an experienced pilot and the wife of the deputy chief of staff of the Transport Command, about 50 women fliers will be inducted into the women's auxiliary ferrying squadron with headquarters at Wilmington, Del.

The Transport Command, headed by Major General Harold L. George, flies all Army planes from the factories to air fields in the United States and to overseas war zones, but George said the auxiliary's initial operations would be confined to such small planes as trainers and liaison aircraft, and entirely within the United States.

The new organization was announced at a press conference by Secretary Stimson, who noted that qualifications for the women pilots would be substantially the same as for men—age 21-35, high school education, possession of a commercial license, at least 500 hours' certified flying, American citizenship and cross-country flying experience.

At the outset, members of the squadron will be paid at the rate of $3,000 a year. They will be civil service employees rather than military personnel, but they will wear uniforms and the organization of the unit will be military in nature. Eventually the women probably will be given military status and it was indicated also that they were expected to graduate to operation of large multi-engine planes.

Mrs. Love estimated there were between 500 and 600 women in the country who could meet the minimum requirements for the auxiliary. Most of them already are engaged in work related directly to the war, she said, but as the auxiliary expands they probably will be available for Army service. She estimated there were not more than 15 women in the country now qualified to operate twin-engine or larger planes.

Mercer Student Council to Hold Annual Retreat

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. MACON, Ga., Sept. 10.—The Baptist Student Union Council of Mercer University will hold its annual pre-school retreat September 11-13 at Camp Ben Hawkins near Byron. The purpose of the retreat is to formulate plans for the activities of the Baptist students for the current school session. Plans will also be made to greet the freshmen and transfer students who arrive Monday, September 14.

In addition to a round-table discussion to be conducted by the students themselves, the agenda includes messages from the Rev. Dick Horne, the Rev. J. Maurice Trimmer, and the Rev. L. H. Wright, all pastors of Macon churches; Dr. George Gordh, faculty adviser for the Baptist Student Union; Miss Frances Freeman, student secretary of the University of Georgia, and D. B. Nicholson, state Baptist student secretary.

Members of the council who will attend include Howard Walters, of Atlanta, first vice president; Gwen Reed, of Fort Valley, second vice president; Gus Verdery, of Harlem, and Gene Hunt, of Valdosta, co-third vice presidents; Nell Cochran, of Dublin, secretary; Betty Caldwell, of Fairburn, treasurer; Eugenia Finney, of Gordon, librarian; Mike Warr, of Atlanta, chorister; Doris Croon, of Thomaston, pianist; Grover Tyner, of Dublin, extension director; Anne Devereaux, of Macon, town representative; Charles Clark, of Macon, precision transportation; Bob Culpepper, of Tifton, Sunday school representative; Evelyn Bulloch, of Atlanta, B. T. U. representative; Gainer Bryan, of Forsyth, editor of the News and Views; Julian Sizemore, of Waverly Hall, life service band; Polly Sullivan, of Albany, Y. W. A. representative; Ellen Jane Sams, of Macon, reporter; W. T. Booth, of Madison, student secretary.

President Howard Walters announces that those attending the retreat would leave Taitnall Square Baptist church Friday at 2 p. m.

Hancock Junk Owners Urged To Sell Material

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

SPARTA, Ga., Sept. 10.—Hancock county farmers and others having scrap metal of any kind or rubber, are being urged by the local salvage committee to bring it here without further delay or it may be requisitioned by the government at any time. The junk dealers have been unable to buy some of this scrap from the owners.

Although many tons have been collected already, it is said that much more remains on the farms and in various junk yards.

WAVES Office For Recruiting To Open Here

Lieutenant McFall Will Interview Applicants as Enlisted Personnel.

Lieutenant Mildred Laurence McFall, of the Women's Auxiliary Emergency Service, United States Naval Reserve, will come here today to establish enlistment offices in the Healey building.

Lieutenant McFall, an Atlantian, will consider applicants as enlisted personnel, the officers' candidate school quota having been filled.

Prospective WAVES will be given personal interviews only when they have listed qualifications, educational background, technical training, etc., by mail. Communications should be addressed to Officer of Naval Officer Procurement, 721 Healey building.

Applicants should be 20 through 35 years of age, have a high school diploma or business school time and business experience and must have no children under 18.

Capitol Sees Quick Action On Inflation

Legislators Rush Work for Introduction of Measure.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—(AP) Moves to assure swift consideration of anti-inflation legislation gathered speed today on both sides of the capitol.

Mindful of President Roosevelt's admonition that if congress does not enact legislation by October 1 he "will act," legislators worked on wage and farm price controls.

Senator Brown, Democrat, Michigan, said he thought legislation would be ready for introduction in the senate Saturday and got unanimous consent to introduce it during the recess that day.

He said tentative arrangements had been made to hear administration representatives Monday and farm groups Tuesday.

Brown sought consideration of the measure before the senate gets the tax bill, and hoped to have it reported late next week.

Questioned by Minority Leader McNary, Brown said the bill would be designed to control farm prices and wages and agreed that it would embrace all factors involved in the cost of production and the cost of living.

Republican members of the House Banking Committee, which will handle any house bill, announced after an executive caucus they would "insist upon expedited action" and saw no need for holding hearings.

Speaker Rayburn, Democrat, Texas, and Majority Leader McCormack, Democrat, Massachusetts, also have taken the position that hearings would be unnecessary.

Rayburn and senate leaders arranged a conference for tomorrow, opening up the possibility they could reach an agreement on the form the measure should take and that they then could press for simultaneous house and senate action.

The speaker himself has drafted a simple joint resolution which would "authorize and direct" the President to take any step necessary to prevent inflation.

Stiff opposition to the broad language of the resolution, however, developed within the House Banking Committee, with some members maintaining that congress should spell out the restrictions over increases in pay and prices.

Representative Dittler, Republican, Pennsylvania, introduced a bill to stabilize farm prices at parity or current levels, whichever is higher, and prohibit wage increases which "inflate the cost of living."

"I'm convinced," Dittler said "that it is the duty of congress to deal with both these factors."

At the same time, a proposal by Senator Norris, Independent, Nebraska, to extend Price Administrator Leon Henderson's control to utility rates was referred to the Senate Banking Committee.

Norris told reporters his bill, which would amend the price control act, was necessary "if we are going to control all the items contributing to living costs."

Norris told the senate the utilities were seeking rate increases based on prospective tax payments under the pending revenue bill.

CAP Here To Drop Scrap Reminders
The Atlanta squadron of the Civil Air Patrol, commanded by Leo S. Bosarge, will drop 50,000 leaflets boosting the scrap drive in flights around Atlanta tomorrow.

Six planes will take part in the flight, Bosarge said. The flight is in line with CAP's policy to help as much as possible in the war effort.

The leaflets, printed in several colors, urge civilians to search their homes and yards a second time for scrap they may have overlooked.

City Lays Plans For Salvage Drive
Mayor Hartsfield yesterday called mayors of Fulton county communities and Troy G. Chastain, chairman, and Dr. Charles Adams, chairman of the public works committee of the Fulton county commission, to a conference at noon today at the city hall to lay plans for an intensive salvage campaign for Fulton county.

He said he is anxious for Atlanta and Fulton county to do everything possible to make as much war materials available to the federal government and that a coordinated effort is mandatory to get maximum results.

He will hold a conference at 10 o'clock this morning with members of general council and the 33 city department heads to gear the municipality better for the war effort.

Augusta Medical Unit Makes Faculty Changes
AUGUSTA, Ga., Sept. 10.—(AP) Dr. G. Lombard Kelly, dean of the University of Georgia Medical School here, announced several faculty changes. He said Dr. A. J. Waters, former assistant professor of zoology at the university, at Athens, has been appointed instructor of pathology.

The resignation of Dr. W. R. Brown, assistant professor of pathological chemistry, has been accepted, it was announced, so that he could accept a commission in the army.

Dr. Fred Mettler, who has been on a year's leave of absence, has also resigned, it was announced, to become a member of the faculty at Columbia University in New York.

GOES TO NAVY—Francis F. Shurling former director of the Office of War Information Bureau of Public Inquiry here, has resigned to go with the Navy Department in Washington.

Shurling Quits OWI Post To Go With Navy
Francis F. Shurling, director of the Office of War Information Bureau of Public Inquiry here, has resigned his OWI position to go with the Navy Department in Washington. He has made his permanent home in Atlanta since 1938.

Was Director of Public Inquiry; Former OGR State Director.
The latter agency was converted to the Office of Government Reports and Shurling remained with the new agency as state director. Recently the OGR was reorganized as a part of the Office of War Information.

Shurling was married in 1935 to the former Miss Almeda Whitehead, of Chatham, Va.

The vacancy in the Office of War Information created by Shurling's resignation will be filled temporarily by Malcolm Morrow.

Tragedy Hits Zoo; Lion Cub Is Dead
Tragedy struck the Atlanta zoo at Grant park yesterday and "Becky," six-week-old daughter of Prince and Patsie Queen, prize lions, was dead.

The royal household mourned the passing and Johnny Dilbeck, caretaker, and Walter Dillon, of the Lions' Club, who was a sort of godfather to "Becky" and her brothers, were sad.

In addition to her parents, Becky is survived by two brothers, George I, named for George I. Simons, general manager of parties, and Walter Dillon, named for Dillon, who acted as chief of ceremonies when the Lions' Club adopted the newborn babes; and a host of friends and cousins in Africa.

Dilbeck said Becky always had been delicate and the recent sudden changes in temperature were just too much for her.

Naval Stores 1943 Program To Be Discussed

Meeting Is To Be Held in Jacksonville on September 17.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. VALDOSTA, Ga., Sept. 10.—A discussion of the tentative draft of the 1943 naval stores conservation program will take place at a meeting Thursday, September 17, at Jacksonville, Fla., it was announced today by the American Turpentine Farmers' Association Co-operative at the general offices in this city.

The meeting will be held at 10 o'clock at the Hotel Mayflower in Jacksonville. All producers, gun farmers, and others interested in naval stores are urged to be present. The tentative draft was prepared by a committee from the association, acting in collaboration with officials of the United States Forest Service of the Triple A in Washington.

In urging a full attendance, President Harley Langdale, of the association, said: "You should be present for two reasons: First, to take advantage of your opportunity to express yourself before the final form of the program is agreed upon; and second, because we need your advice and experience. This matter, you may readily see, is of vital concern to everyone connected in any way with the gum naval stores."

Newspaperman Wins House Post
THOMASVILLE, Ga., Sept. 10.—(AP)—Lee F. Kelly, advertising manager of the Thomasville Times Enterprise, was elected state representative from Thomas county, tabulations of yesterday's Democratic primary showed today.

Representative A. B. Hart was re-elected. Kelly replaces Robert F. Chastain, who was defeated in a three-corner race.

In near-by Grady county, P. A. Jones defeated Dr. W. A. Walker, the incumbent, and Grover Reagan, for state representative in another three-way contest.

For state senator from the seventh district, composed of Brooks, Thomas and Grady counties, former State Senator Jeff A. Pope appeared to have a majority over J. W. Barwick and E. F. Dollar.

Humphrey Defeats Judge Hardeman
LOUISVILLE, Ga., Sept. 10.—(AP)—Superior Court Judge R. N. Hardeman, of Louisville, Georgia's oldest jurist in point of service, was defeated in the Middle Judicial circuit on the basis of complete, unofficial returns from yesterday's primary.

The winner was R. H. Humphrey, of Swainsboro, now judge of the Swainsboro city court. Counties in the circuit are Jefferson, Toombs, Emanuel, Candler and Washington.
